Car Plunges Through Ice With Family

PHILLIPSBURG, Que. (CP)—A family of five, reunited just a week ago, was wiped out Tuesday when a car crashed through the ice on Lake Champlain.

UN Again Charges Rhodesia

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The United Nations issued another charge that the Congo's secessionist Katanga province was aided by Northern Rhodesia in its fight against UN forces.

A UN spokesman said Tuesday a witness on the scene reported that a Katanga air force bomber operated out of Ndola, Northern Rhodesia, in sorties against UN troops in fighting earlier this month.

'LUDICROUS'
Last Saturday Rhodesia denounced as "ludicrous" a UN charge that European mercenaries drove 48 armed jeeps across Northern Rhodesia to Katanga.

The British foreign office said it had asked for an explanation of such reports from Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Rhodesian federation and a strong supporter of Katanga president Moise Tshombe.

Rescue Ship Plucks Angry Dredgemen From Stormy Ocean

BOSTON (AP)—Ten men snatched from the stormy North Atlantic Tuesday after they abandoned the drifting dredge Cartagena are bound for Boston in the rescue cutter Acushnet, determined not to return unless the weather improves.

The Acushnet plucked the men, including three Canadians, from gale-churned seas earlier in the day after they left the Cartagena on a raft. One was severely injured.

The U.S. Coast Guard identified the Canadians as John Philip Smith, 23, the second engineer of Wallaceburg, Ont.; Vaughn Slack, 27, also of Wallaceburg, and John Sawyer, 22, of Chatham, Ont.

DOES NOT WISH
The Acushnet radioed a request by the dredge's captain that the owners, Standard Dredging Corp. of New York, be notified of the crew's decision.

Capt. Adley LeBlanc, 54, of Breaux Bridge, La., said his crew "does not wish to return."

The dredge went adrift

Dorothy Carr came from Alliance, Alta., just last week to join her husband David in Bedford, Que., where he was superintendent of a poultry processing plant.

REUNION
It was the first time he had seen their three children, Leslie, 5, Stephen, 4, and Jacqueline, 14 months, in several months. The parents were both about 30.

The Carrs, after a happy Christmas together, visited relatives here Tuesday and when Arthur Carr, David's brother, suggested a drive after lunch before returning to Bedford, everyone agreed.

HALF-MILE OUT
Arthur, about 40, had driven less than one-half mile off shore when the car suddenly went through the ice. He grabbed his daughter, Lee, 7, and escaped but his brother's family was trapped and drowned.

Andre Suprenaut, 20, who arrived on the scene shortly after the accident, said in an interview the Carrs headed "straight out on the ice to a point which is usually a good fishing area."

"The ice is never very thick there because of the current," he added.

THREW HER OUT

"From what Arthur Carr told me, the back wheels went down first. Arthur grabbed Lee and threw her out of the car, then jumped himself as it went down.

"He then jumped in and stayed for 20 minutes in an effort to get to the others."

The freezing weather flowed into Florida from a Canadian cold front that produced blizzards in the U.S. midwest and covered much of the northeast with snow.

Gainesville, in north central Florida, reported 23 degrees. Tallahassee recorded the official low for the state—20 degrees.

SMUDGE FIRES
Farmers and citrus growers, warned of the coming cold, broke out wind machines and used heavy smudge fires to protect their tender truck crops and young trees.

Officials of the federal state front warning service in Lakeland said a financial estimate of loss, if any, from the cold was not available immediately.

Christmas Day when a hawker parted as she was being towed from Quebec to Baltimore by the Canadian tug Foundation Vigilant.

The Acushnet said the tug remained standing by, her master advising he intends to get a line on her when weather moderates.

STAY 10 WEEKS
"If it doesn't sink I'll stay here 10 weeks if I have to," he added.

Injured crew member Merlin Robinson, 46, of Harrisburg, Miss., was unconscious and "apparently dead" when rescued, the Acushnet reported.

He was revived through mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by a medical corpsman and Tuesday night rested comfortably.

Golfing Quartet Strokes to Christmas Tree Honors

Winter Socks Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Winter swung its biggest blow of the year at Florida Tuesday. Frigid air hammered the mercury below freezing south of Miami and coasted cars with ice.

Weathermen predicted a quick warmup from the two-day Christmas cold snap.

CANADIAN FRONT

Shuffle in Quebec All Aboard For Cabinet?

OTTAWA (CP)—Word spread quickly Tuesday that Prime Minister Diefenbaker and almost all his ministers will travel to Quebec City today, possibly for a major cabinet reorganization.

A cabinet shuffle at this time would make such a trip necessary. New ministers or those changing their portfolios would be sworn in before Gov. ernor-General Vanier, who is at his Quebec City residence for the Christmas holidays.

Lending weight to the rumor was the consistency in which it was being repeated in many Ottawa quarters—even down to the fact that two private railway cars were being prepared for the trip. However, there was no official confirmation.

BOARD TODAY
The possibility that the journey might be intended for dissolution of Parliament and a snap election was considered most unlikely. Parliament has already been called into session Jan. 18, and dissolution would not require all ministers to make the trip.

Reports here are that all cabinet ministers available in Ottawa would board the train this afternoon, and that the Quebec City ceremony would be held Thursday.

SEVENTH SEAT
One portfolio has been vacant since Paul Comtois left recently to become lieutenant-governor of Quebec.

Speculation is that the vacancy will be filled and Quebec given a seventh cabinet seat.

Train Mishap Hurts Score
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Two cars of an elevated train jumped the track here Tuesday night, killing at least one person and injuring a score of others.

FIRE DEATHS
Ontario's holiday was marred by eight fire deaths, half the total across the country.

British Columbia had four fire deaths, Quebec two and Saskatchewan and New Brunswick one each.

Power to End All Life In Realm of Warfare

DENVER (AP)—Unlimited war has the power to end all human life and can no longer effectively protect national security, a U.S. scientific committee on human welfare said Tuesday.

The scientists urged a marshaling of all scientific resources to discover new inventions to replace war as a means of social protection.

"Science has now achieved such mastery of nature as to place in human hands the power to end human life," the committee's report said. "From now on, mankind must live in a world in which a suicidal war—by whatever means—is always possible."

Senator 'Kicking Himself'

MONTREAL (CP)—Former Conservative Senator Henri Courtemanche said Tuesday he is "kicking himself" for having helped Dr. George Horne convert Jean-Talton Hospital from a private to a public institution.

Mr. Courtemanche submitted his resignation from the Senate Friday after a Quebec commission of inquiry into the affairs of the Montreal hospital criticized him for receiving more than $60,000 from the hospital and suggested the sum was probably a kickback on provincial government grants.

LEGAL SERVICES
He claimed the payments were for legal services.

The former senator said in an interview he was told by Dr. Horne and his administrative assistant Romuald Belhumeur that Jean-Talton had to be converted to a public institution to receive provincial grants.

"That task was entrusted to me. But the way things turned out, I'm kicking myself for having accepted their proposition."

WILL RUN AGAIN
Mr. Courtemanche, first elected to Parliament in 1957 and former secretary of state in the Diefenbaker cabinet, said he will run in the next federal election.

"I discussed it with Mr. Diefenbaker, who didn't urge me one way or the other," Mr. Courtemanche said. "He simply told me I was very solid in my former constituency of La Belle."

Hotel Fire Kills Two

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fire swept the 16-story Mayflower Hotel on fashionable Central Park West today. Two persons died, many others were hurt.

A-Tactics Taught By RCAF

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF is training its Air Defence Command in nuclear as well as conventional tactics, qualified informants said Tuesday.

The RCAF made no official comment on the matter, probably because it involves a political question—a government decision whether to accept U.S. nuclear warheads.

BY THE FALL

The first RCAF Voodoo jet interceptor squadron—at near-by Uplands air base—became operational Christmas Eve. The four others will be at operational readiness with the U.S. Voodoo by the fall.

The Voodoos are being exercised by the air defence system in nuclear tactics—as if they carried the Genie nuclear rocket as well as the conventional Falcon air-to-air missile.

LOW BOMBER
Sources said nuclear tactics will also be applied to the CF-104 low-level jet bomber. The first squadron is scheduled to join the RCAF air division in Europe in November.

Nuclear tactics for the Voodoo are more an exercise for the ground-control system than for the aircraft.

FOR INSTANCE

The ground command system, for instance, would not take a nuclear-armed Voodoo as close to a target as a Voodoo armed only with a conventional weapon. Possible blinding of the pilot by the flash of a nuclear explosion is a problem not yet solved.

One side of the "table" on which weapons are slung on the RCAF Voodoo carries the Falcon.

GENIE FITTINGS
The other side is empty—but has the fittings for a conventional weapon. Possible blinding of the pilot by the flash of a nuclear explosion is a problem not yet solved.

Even as the RCAF puts into service the 66 Voodoos obtained from the U.S. defence officials are talking about a successor for the Voodoo in the late 1960s or early 1970s.

CRUDE WEAPON

The threat of the manned bomber is seen as lasting well into the 1970s at least. The intercontinental ballistic missile is regarded here as still a crude though powerful weapon. Any missile exchange between the U.S. and Russia would be in the current description, "blind basketball."

Protests Grow In India

NEW DELHI (AP)—Internal disapproval of India's military seizure of Portuguese Goa, Diu and Damao grew Tuesday.

An editor joined one of India's elder statesmen in criticizing the takeover as a violation of the moral principles of Mohandas K. Gandhi.

WHAT FAITH?
Eric de Costa, an editor writing in the Eastern Economist, said that after nearly a half century of reliance on Gandhi's principles of non-violence the current question is "what faith do we now profess?"

The first significant sign of domestic protest came from Chakravarti Rajagopalachari—known in India as C.R.—the only Indian ever to serve as governor-general of the country.

LOST POWER
The 82-year-old statesman, who broke with Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party two years ago to found the right-wing Freedom Party, declared that as a result of the Goa invasion "India has totally lost the moral power to raise her voice against the use of military power. She can no longer speak as she used to."

CRUDE WEAPON
The threat of the manned bomber is seen as lasting well into the 1970s at least. The intercontinental ballistic missile is regarded here as still a crude though powerful weapon. Any missile exchange between the U.S. and Russia would be in the current description, "blind basketball."

TITANS CANCELLED

To accomplish the new goal, the air force yesterday cancelled contracts with the Martin Co. for a number of Titan II rockets designed to boost the glider into sub-orbit.

At the same time, it said new contracts will be drawn up to permit the company to begin work on a more powerful rocket booster.

MOVE TO ORBITAL

The air force said the development program "will move directly from manned drops of the Dynasoar glider from a B-52 to orbital flight."

In the orbital flight, a glider will be launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., and after one or more flights around the world will land at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Beauty In Red

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet Union has held its first "contest of beauty of the human form"—and the winner was an astronaut and weightlifter, Vladimir Kholodny, the Soviet news agency Tass said Tuesday night.

The contest, at Sverdlovsk in the Ural east of Moscow, will be an annual event.

Britain Switches War Emphasis To 'Fire Brigade'

LONDON (UPI)—Britain was reported yesterday to be drafting a new 10-year defence plan drastically reducing the role of overseas bases and placing greater reliance on mobile "fire brigade" tactics to deal with far-flung emergencies.

U.K. Reacts To Tension In Mideast

MOMBASA, Kenya (Reuters)—Officers of the British aircraft carrier Centaur were summoned urgently back to their ship Tuesday night as Britain took precautionary measures in view of tension in the Middle East.

KUWAIT LIKELY

There was no official comment on the recall of the officers, but sources close to the navy said they expected the ship to sail early Wednesday with the oil-rich sheikhdom of Kuwait as a likely destination.

SENT IN JUNE

British troops were sent into Kuwait at the request of its ruler last June when neighboring Iraq announced that it was staking claim to the tiny Persian Gulf sheikhdom.

JFK Sees Father Plans Back Check

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy visited his father Tuesday and then returned to work on presidential matters.

In advance of the arrival of Dr. Preston Wade, New York specialist, to make a year-end checkup on his back, the president spent 24 minutes at the bedside of Joseph P. Kennedy, 73, suffering from the paralytic after-effects of a stroke and from pneumonia.

In mid-afternoon, the president turned his attention to the federal budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Queen Encourages Prejudice Fighters

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen sent a Christmas message of "hope and encouragement" Monday to those who "fight prejudice by example, who stick to standards and ideals in face of persecution."

In her Christmas Day message, broadcast and televised throughout the Commonwealth, the Queen said that during her visits this year to Asia and Africa she had been made aware of the "great volume of goodwill and friendship that exists between all the varied peoples who profess different faiths and who make up our Commonwealth family."

"To them their Christian brethren send a message of hope and encouragement this Christmas."

"It goes also to the quiet people who fight prejudice by example, who stick to standards and ideals in face of persecution, who make real sacrifices in order to help and serve their neighbors."

The 35-year-old monarch spoke of the younger generation and said nothing would improve if they "merely express themselves by indifference or by revulsion against what they regard as an out-of-date order of things."

"The world desperately needs their vigor, their determination and their service to their fellow men."

Egypt Drops Yemen Ending Arab Union

LONDON (Reuters)—Egypt has decided to sever its link with the Red Sea kingdom of the Yemen by ending the federation of Arab states, the Egyptian government announced Tuesday night.

The announcement was made by Abdel Kader Hatem, United Arab minister of state, and reported by Cairo radio.

The federation was established in March, 1958, five weeks after the union of Egypt and Syria to form the United Arab Republic. Syria broke with the U.A.R. last September.

PROVIDED FOR UNION

The federation's 22-article charter provided for a unified foreign policy and union of the armed forces.

Saturday in a nation-wide broadcast, Egypt's President Nasser ridiculed the Imam of Yemen.

He said that conditions there and in Saudi Arabia were against the "law of justice and the law of God."

'REACTIONARIES'

He termed the Imam and King Saud of Saudi Arabia "reactionaries" and declared that Islam was a "socialist religion."

In a similar vein, the authoritative Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram, which forecast the rupture of the Yemeni link, said Yemen was "the victim of a reactionary regime" and had done nothing to consolidate its bond with Egypt.

The paper said that Egypt was not prepared to enter into unity with any Arab country except on the basis of its "popular struggle toward self-sufficiency and justice."

Bombs Shatter Rightist Truce In Algeria

ALGIERS (UPI)—The right-wing Secret Army Organization ended its Christmas truce in Algeria yesterday and terrorist violence erupted in a new outburst of bombings and killings.

Police said 31 persons were killed and at least 40 others were injured in three days of terrorism in Algeria.

OAS Terrorists, pledged to keep Algeria French, had called a three-day "truce of God" over the holiday. It failed, however, to stem a wave of bombings, killings and gunnings.

Last night a plastic bomb was set off in a Moslem restaurant in Bone, killing one person. Another bomb destroyed the empty car of a minor French official in Bougie.

There was a growing feeling in Algiers that President de Gaulle might soon announce new steps to end the seven-year-old Algerian war. There were rumors that he would announce a bilateral cease-fire and a date for a resumption of peace talks when he delivers a major speech on Friday.

Most of the weekend terrorism was blamed on Moslem nationalists.

But shortly after the OAS truce ended yesterday, three persons were killed in Algiers in gunfire attacks. Two were Moslem workers who fell under a hail of bullets fired from a passing car. Four other Moslems were wounded in the same attack, one of them seriously.

Another man, a European civil servant, was shot and killed as he entered his office in the centre of Algiers.

Four soldiers were among the Moslem victims in the weekend violence. They fell in ambushes while on rural patrols.

U.S. Shelves Saucer Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—America's flying saucer project is being grounded.

By the end of the year, the last of more than $7,500,000 earmarked for the radical new aircraft will be used. The army and air force do not intend to spend any more.

The Pentagon confirmed that it was dropping the saucer idea, at least for the time being. No reason for the decision was given.

Neglected Boy, 4 Weighed 16 Pounds

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP)—A four-year-old boy died Monday of what doctors said was malnutrition.

They said Michael Bishop weighed only 16 pounds. He was of normal bone structure for a child of four—36 inches tall—but, said a police officer, "was all skin and bones."

Police hooked his parents, Claude Bishop, 42, an unemployed construction worker, and his wife, Marjorie, 39, a waitress, on suspicion of murder and child neglect.

Worst Road Toll in Six Years As U.S. Counts 524 Dead

CHICAGO (AP)—The Christmas traffic toll reached 524, making the three-day yuletide period the most tragic on United States highways in six years.

The National Safety Council said 523 persons were killed in traffic accidents. The Associated Press counted 524 and 83 other deaths in fires and 86 in miscellaneous mishaps.

The overall total of 693 violent deaths covered the 78-hour period from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Monday.

Highway fatalities, which surpassed the council's pre-holiday estimate of 500, were the highest since the three-day Christmas season record of 609 in 1955.

Europe Gripped By Cold

LONDON (Reuters)—The Christmas highway toll grimly reminded homebound travelers to use caution as a four-day festive weekend drew to a close Tuesday night in cold and wet Western Europe.

Provisional figures and estimates indicated at least 200 persons would have died on Western European roads by the time the holiday period ended at midnight.

Icy weather gripped northern Europe and Scandinavia while some Mediterranean countries had a wet Christmas and weekend.

In Britain, at least 113 persons died during the holiday, four more than in 1960.

A bright report on traffic came from Austria, where there were no major road accidents up to noon Tuesday.

Visible Culmination

ONE OF THE last official acts of Mayor Percy Scurrah before his term of office expires with the year will be to apply a chain-saw to the first power pole to be removed from downtown streets as a result of wiring being placed underground.

It is most fitting that the retiring mayor should symbolically start this last phase of the $3,500,000 program undertaken by the B.C. Electric Company with the city's co-operation, for the underground work—the less inspiring part of the job—has taken place in five of his six years as chief magistrate, and it is only now that the visible culmination of the program is about to begin.

In coming months an area of about 30 blocks in downtown Victoria will take on new distinction as gradually 254,000 feet of overhead wiring is taken down and 200 wooden poles are removed. The unsightly network is something Victoria has had in common with other Canadian cities of its size, but that has been small consolation. It will be a pleasure to see the overhead wiring go and the Victoria business area emerge more beautiful.

It will be a double pleasure, because the change will come in the city's centennial year, although it is understood that because of the complexities of making the new connections only some of the main streets are likely to be clear of poles by the beginning of summer.

The improvement is an expensive one, but will be worth the money. Victorians well may hope that this program will not be the last: that the day will come when ugly and hazardous overhead power lines and their disfiguring rows of poles will disappear from more sections of the city.

Little White Vows

ON THE EVE of Christmas Premier Bennett was in the mood all good men and true manage to fashion at this time of the year. Like his fellows around him and elsewhere he glowed with kindness and didn't have a harsh word for anyone.

He looked ahead in the same buoyant spirit to the New Year, and voiced his number one resolution, to wit: to avoid controversy in 1962 and settle all problems in a spirit of goodwill.

A splendid theme, indubitably, even if it runs counter to the partisan influences that seem to set opposing political groups continually at odds. Would that all men of political persuasion could be imbued with the same spirit of compromise.

The Columbia dispute would be settled in a jiffy; the province and the municipalities would equate their tax differences; amalgamation would come easily to Greater Victoria; neither governments nor oppositions would claim a monopoly of all the virtues, and so on.

But alas, those little white vows; how quickly they fade into thin air. Voiced with sincerity even if of transient quality, they suffer collapse when the partisan claims of political life resume their dominance.

Mr. Bennett will not be alone if he succumbs to the usual fate of men; in other realms he will have lots of company.

But what a wonderful world this would be if all people, politicians and others alike, could hang on to their New Year resolutions.

Controversial Echo

THE MEYER case closed for Canada over the weekend when the former Nazi SS general died at his home in West Germany. Doubts have been expressed about the extent of his guilt, but a Canadian court found him responsible for the murder of 18 unarmed Canadian prisoners of war and most people were satisfied that the verdict was justified.

Meyer was a dynamic and brilliant tank leader, but of the ruthless and fanatical type of which the SS was constituted, and his division was credited with the deaths of many Canadian prisoners in other incidents.

That of itself was an indictment of the division's commander, whose own ethos would permeate the character of the men under him.

Kurt Meyer was not dealt with harshly in any event. First sentenced to be shot, this was commuted to life imprisonment by Canadian military authority, an act that created much controversy, and he was brought to Canada as its only war criminal to serve his sentence. There he received preferred treatment, working in the prison library, and stayed only a little more than six years before in 1952 political influence secured his transfer, unheralded and in secret, back to Germany.

Two years later he was given his freedom. As a civilian he sold beer to Canadian troops in West Germany, was invited into Canadian officers' messes and presented with a Canadian steel helmet, treatment that would read ironically to the relatives of the Canadians done to death while his prisoners of war.

Do It Or Drop It

AFTER TWO years' work (?) the special duty committee named by Mayor Scurrah in January, 1960, to advise on a civic auditorium has submitted its report. It might as well have kept silent.

About all it does is recommend a 2,500-seat building and says this would be a great asset to the community. It studiously omits all reference as to how such a building could be financed, which is the core of the question it was asked to study.

There is general agreement on the need for a civic auditorium; the problem that has been talked about for years is that of capital cost.

City council has endorsed the report and passed it along to the 1962 aldermanic board. Next year the council would be wise to forget about any more outside advice and try and do something itself.

This should include consultation with the adjoining municipalities, for without their interest the project may never eventuate. A civic auditorium would serve all the Greater Victoria area, and all four municipal bodies have some responsibility for its creation.

The auditorium project has been a doubtful affair for long enough. Either the 1962 council should get down to real business with it or drop the matter altogether. It becomes boring when nothing but lip service is given to it.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and scaling wox...

By TOM TAYLOR

A COLLEAGUE, thinking to puzzle me which wouldn't be very hard of course, asked me when I was off guard where the expression "scot free" came from.

I gave him a wary look, suspicious that he was indicating my birthright and seeking to rub home a certain gross libel. But in all fairness he's a decent chap and he was only after information.

I let myself down; I didn't answer straight away. Instead I waited until he turned his back and then sneaked into the library. Our office library has lots of books about odd things, you know, and I am greatly beholden to it. It enables me to appear much wiser than I am.

Wonderful tomes, are books; I hope you too are fond of them.

Well, to my intense relief, I discovered that "scot" in this instance doesn't have the implication it would have if the "s" were a capital letter. In fact Mayor Scurrah has much more to do with it than yours truly.

I hope he lets me off scot free for that remark, and after all, he can't help it. Municipalities will be municipalities.

Mind you "scot free" isn't attached to them alone. By no means. I have no doubt for instance that if your little boy knocked over the Christmas tree yesterday you let him off without punishment, this time of year being this time of year.

But no little boy, leery lest he'll get what's coming to him when he misbehaves, would ever dream the tax-roll had anything to do with the pardon that eases his apprehension.

So it has, however, as I learned in order to discomfit my colleague and restore my own equilibrium.

Once upon a time, apparently, "scot" was a parish assessment laid on individuals according to their ability to pay. A sort of income tax, of which as you know governments of all kinds are very fond.

How did they manage before 1917, I wonder, when the "temporary" national income tax was introduced. Unlike modern-day hairdos, whose permanence is only temporary, this tax stayed put.

With the growth of municipal palities the "scot" was seized on and added to. There developed the general assessment and a special levy. These were joined in the phrase "scot and lot," meaning that the poor taxpayer had to pay the whole shot.

And how he does nowadays, with extra "lots" for all kinds of purposes.

Naturally, then, if by some alchemy a taxpayer could dodge the levies, or receive remission, he got off scot-free. If Mr. Bennett ever raised the householders' grant to equal the total amount of your municipal taxes you would, ostensibly, be tax free.

You wouldn't really, of course, for some other "scot" would be invoked to enable him to play Santa Claus.

And so there you have it, or at least my colleague has for I passed the word along. Not that this will bring him any comfort, for while little boys might be let off for being bad there's no chance in sight that the municipal "scot" will ever disappear.

New Soviet 'Anti-Semitism'

An Assault on Jewish Consciousness

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

THE uneasy position of the Jewish communities in the Soviet Union has been very much in the news. Synagogues have been shut down; in Leningrad Mr. Pechersky and two other Jewish leaders have been arrested for "anti-state activities"; there have been violent attacks, above all, in the provincial press, accusing rabbis of corruption and subversion and representing the Jewish communities as hotbeds of reaction.

Until a few months ago Russian Jews were glad to meet in their synagogues their religious brethren from outside the Soviet Union. Now they are afraid to do so.

The natural assumption is that a wave of anti-Semitism is sweeping the Soviet Union. But it is not so simple as that.

Anti-Semitism there is, and it is sometimes violent, above all in the Ukraine and Byelorussia. It is possible to meet with sickening examples.

Thus, three or four years ago, when I was in Kiev, I wished to make a pilgrimage to Babi Yar. Babi Yar has been in the news lately because of the controversial poem by Yevushenko in memory of the Jews who were murdered there. It is one of those arid ravines on the outskirts of the city, made famous because one of Heydrich's intellectual thugs, S.S. Colonel Paul Blobel, organized the shooting and mass burial of 33,771 Jews on September 29 and 30, 1941.

I asked the head of Intourist in Kiev how to get there. And I should say at once that he was one of the most unpleasant young men I have ever had to meet in the Soviet Union. He asked me what I wanted with Babi Yar; and when I told him he made it clear that my request was both offensive and suspicious.

Finally he said: "I don't know where Babi Yar is, and anyway you can't go there. Why do you want to look at a lot of dead Jews? There are still far too many live ones in the streets."

I found my own way to Babi Yar; and, of course, there was nothing at all to indicate what had happened there.

Again, last year the Dagestan Communist printed an obscene libel in which the old story of the ritual drinking of blood was once more trotted out, in this case Muslim blood. This looked very sinister indeed, appearing in an official Communist Party journal. But in fact the editor of this sheet was almost at once removed from his post (though not disgraced).

Japanese Defence Buildup

New Troubles

By EDWARD NEILAN, from Tokyo

THE clang of jail doors closed on 13 ultra-rightists accused of plotting a bloody coup d'etat in Japan has signalled new troubles for Premier Hayato Ikeda and the struggling Japanese Self Defence Force.

The police raids which netted the 13 and uncovered several caches of arms are expected to have serious repercussions in the Japanese Diet where sentiment is already strong against any move to strengthen Japan's military defences.

Lines of leftist demonstrators began winding through Tokyo streets at once denouncing the attempted coup, rejecting any military buildup and calling for the ouster of the Ikeda government.

Ikeda and leaders of his government, at U.S. urging, have been moving quietly for months to strengthen the Japanese Self Defence Force in the face of an antimilitary hangover that had persisted here since the end of the Second World War. In recent weeks there were signs of progress. There seemed to be a growing realization in some quarters that Japan could not continue to rely on the United States for its entire defence against Communist threats.

Ikeda had presented the Diet with a military budget that represented 2 per cent of the national outlay. The sum is still small, but it represented one of the biggest postwar arms budgets.

The disclosure of a rightist military plot threatens even this small advance.

Police said the men arrested included several former military officers.

The plotters reportedly planned to seize control of the government because they felt the Ikeda regime was incapable of preventing a Communist revolution. They reportedly planned to assassinate the premier and several other leaders.

Police said they had sought the support of the 240,000-man Self Defence Force, but were rebuffed.

Most observers here regarded the attempted coup as poorly organized and the work of a handful of fanatics. However, most agreed that the repercussions would be severe. U.S. officials here had regarded the situation as improving. The Japanese Communist party has shown membership gains since the U.S. 1950 riots against the U.S.-Japan Security Treaty, but leftist demonstrations and mass action had declined.

During the noon rush of office workers and Christmas shoppers in downtown Tokyo, I saw one elderly Japanese pause to read a hastily prepared poster that told of the attempted coup.

An American could not help but wonder at the old man's thoughts. Was he thinking back 20 years to 1941 and another group of militarists?

A younger man approached, scanned the poster, and said: "This is the kind of thing that drives people to the left."

The Packback

It Was All Good

By GREGORY CLARK

RECENTLY I faced a group of students of journalism, radio and TV at one of our colleges, and among the questions they asked was: What was my favorite experience in all my newspaper career? When I failed to think of a favorite experience, some of the radio students enquired what my favorite music was, what was my favorite recording?

Even this I was stumped by. Then I recollected that to have lived seventy years, a man has lived over 25,000 days.

Both these incidents illustrate two truths, which should be kept distinct and separate. The Intourist creep in Kiev and the Dagestan editor were both rabid anti-Semites. They found support and encouragement in the general party line, which is to make things hard for the Jews. The facts that there was no memorial at Babi Yar, and that the Dagestan editor would not have dared attack the Jews without a general directive from Moscow (which he misinterpreted in his own simple way) indicate the complexity of authority. But it would be wrong to say that authority is anti-Semitic in the normal sense of the phrase.

What the Soviet authorities cannot bear is the thought of an active Jewish community existing as a coherent foreign body in the midst of the Soviet Union, and having ties with ex-gonists outside, above all in Israel and the United States. This is an exhibition not of anti-Semitism but of simple paranoia.

Religion of all kinds is under constant assault in the Soviet Union; but for reasons of state certain religious organizations are permitted and supplied with an official niche. This applies above all to the Russian Orthodox Church, which, through the ages, has known as well how to render unto Caesar. But it applies also to Baptists and Buddhists. It even applies to Muslims, who form a majority in Soviet Central Asia and an attractive force for Muslims outside. But it has never applied to Jewry.

The formal communities of Russian Jews, the kehilot, were abolished in 1919 and never restored. There is no tolerated state-wide organization of Soviet Jews. Thus Mr. Pechersky (and others like him, who have lately been frowned on) had no formal position: he was simply recognized as the head of the religious community attached to the Leningrad synagogue.

After a full since Stalin's death, the authorities are now trying to frighten these unofficial communities out of existence. They were showing signs of becoming too strong, and too self-conscious.

What Soviet authority is worried about is split loyalties among the Soviet Jews. They form the one element in the population which has close ties with the outside world, which can look, moreover, to the government of a foreign power. What Soviet authority is trying to do (having failed to equalize Jewish consciousness with Bolshevikness) is not to exterminate Jews but to kill Jewish consciousness.

The trouble is that it lacks the courage of its own convictions. Even those Jews who would gladly allow themselves to be assimilated completely, who think of themselves as Soviet citizens first, are not allowed to do so. They are not trusted. They have to call themselves Jews on all their papers. They are thus for ever labelled, and, except in the case of outstanding individuals (Ehrenburg, the Ostrakhs, for example), they are treated as second-class citizens in consequence and this has driven many to discover in adversity a new pride in their race and their religion.

It is a vicious circle. There will be no end to it until the immense, proud State of Soviet Russia feels strong enough to take a chance with a minute fraction of her tiny Jewish minority—to allow those who want to go to Israel to go, to allow those who want to practise their religion to practise it in peace, to allow those who want to forget they are Jews to forget.

I think it is true to say that party and government frown on anti-Semitism (which once flourished under Stalin); but until Mr. Khrushchev ceases to care whether an American Jewish tourist slips a pamphlet about Israel into the hands of an Odesa Jew, the conditions which allow and encourage anti-Semitism will persist.

Now Motorbike Exhausts

The Quivering Air

By CASSANDRA, from London

I WAS musically brought up within earshot of a very fine organist who used to shake the quivering air of the Grand Organ at Alexandra Palace.

He was a memorable musician with an even more memorable name—Mr. Reginald Goss-Custard, FRCO.

Mr. Goss-Custard was in charge of a notable instrument at the Ally-Pally. The huge deep bass pipes were like factory chimneys beginning with the thirty-two foot diapason that made a thunderous sound like a dinosaur's sighing.

Mr. Goss-Custard delighted us with his virtuosity on all the comprehensive range of stops.

There were the celestial Vox Coelestis (or Voice of Heaven); the booming Bourdon; the sweet Dulciana; the woodland Waldflote; the saucy Piccolo; the Alpine Gemshorn (or horn of the Chamois); the full-throated Gamba; the solemn Oboe; the sonorous Tuba; the quivering Vox Humana; the Unda Maris (or wave of the sea); and the 16-ft. Bombarde for aggressive use in the 1912 Overture.

Musical Rides?

Those were the days. But were THESE the days? I have before me a short news item from Christchurch, New Zealand.

It runs thus: "New Zealand police are investigating the theft of organ pipes from a number of Canterbury churches. Police believe that teenaged boys are using them as motor-cycle exhausts."

Never, never, never, ever would we have stood for it in the old Ally-Pally days. Filthy ton-up striplings crucifying the air with exhausts hacked out of the woodland Waldflote?

Adolescent leather-jacketed louts riding to their well-deserved doom to the soft cry of the Tuba?

Filling station fibbers revealing in their greasy Valhalla to the lament of the Dulciana? Thanks be to St. Cecilia, dear Goss-Custard, that you have not lived to hear this day.

Form B.G. 12

Many years ago when I fell even more poorly than I do now, I went to my doctor who looked at me, shuddered and sent me to hospital for examination. The hospital looked at me, winced and ejected plumbing fountains.

my anatomical depths. When I had finished, which took a good time, they wrote out a note to my doctor which they handed to me in an unsealed envelope.

With the curiosity—and anxiety—of youth, I later opened it.

It said that the patient was suffering from "Koch's Infection of the Kidney."

With great speed I looked up a medical dictionary to find out who Mr. Koch was and what his infection was like. Mr. Koch, it turned out, was a German bacteriologist (1843-1910) who discovered the bacillus of tuberculosis.

TB!

I nearly fell off my chair in the public library.

I might have died with fright, which would have been unfortunate, for in the end, it turned out that I had not got the infection on which Mr. Koch's justifiable fame is largely founded.

The Reactor

The other day a young party who is about the same age as I was when I got the false bad news, was examined by the Public Health Department of the London County Council. They handed the youth a piece of paper (Form B.G. 12) which, like me, he promptly opened.

It said that after a Tuberculin Skin Test, he was found to be a reactor, and that his doctor should be told.

As all he knew about reactors was a bulbous-shaped building at Downreay at the very top of Scotland that had something to do with nuclear fusion he was much alarmed.

Further down, form B.G. 12 said that in other persons (not B.G. vaccinated) "reaction to tuberculin tests should be regarded as evidence of infection, probably from contact with a tuberculous person. Such a tuberculous disease is a communicable disease and can be ascertained only by further investigation including periodic X-ray examination."

Although the boy couldn't understand this last paragraph—not can most people, including myself—he had the fair wind-up.

The gibberish had got him guessing and he needed quite a lot of stroking to make him purr again and to convince him that his future was something brighter than that of a jelly consumptive working at Downreay.

Letters to the Editor

Men of the Owl

During my grandfather's time, he used to sit on the beach and sit down through his wadded fingers and reminisce about the good old days gone by, when he first saw a floating island land on our shores. They went out to see, and on board this floating island they were surprised to see men with grey eyes, and they said to one another, these men must be of the owl family, for they have grey eyes.

They never thought the descendants of these people would one day open their hearts to help our children to have a Merry Christmas.

Now I would like to thank all the kind people of Victoria who generously donated to this great cause, and all the people who worked so hard to pack all the toys.

Our sincerest thanks, and Happy New Year to all.

Counsellors RAY SAM
and VICTOR JOSEPH

Saanichton, B.C.

Good Choice

As a regular subscriber to the Colonist for the past 17 years and a taxpayer during that period, may I be allowed space in your much-esteemed paper, as an every-day citizen in congratulating the electors of the City of Victoria and the municipality of Saanich with the results of their recent election as they will have a widespread effect not only in the surrounding municipalities but throughout the many municipalities in the province of B.C.

Under sound leadership with amalgamation a strong plank in their respective election campaigns we may look forward to further progressive development within these two municipalities in the near future and we may also hear much more along the line of amalgamation in the months ahead.

THOMAS TREDAWAY,

1579 Hampshire Road.

Council Rites Start Friday

A former reeve and councillor in Oak Bay, Mr. Justice Robert Wootton will swear in Reeve George Murdoch and three councillors at 10.30 a.m. Friday.

The ceremony, to be held in the provincial court-house, will be the first in Greater Victoria.

SECOND RITE

Taking their oaths of office with Reeve Murdoch will be Allan Cox, Walter Dodsworth and William Wade.

Second swearing in ceremony will also be conducted by Mr. Justice Wootton. Mayor-elect R. B. Wilson and re-elected aldermen Mrs. Lily Wilson, Geoffrey Edgelow, Millard Mooney and Rev. J. L. W. McLean will take their oaths at 10 a.m. Jan. 2.

BROTHER ROBERT

In Saanich, police court magistrate William Oatley will administer the next meeting swear in his own brother Robert.

Freighter May Crack

City Tug Waits for Crew As Ship Labors Off Cuba

A Victoria-based towboat was wallowing in heavy seas off the Cuban coast at press time last night, waiting to remove the crew from a grounded and holed Lebanese freighter.

Latest report from Capt. Harley Blagburne of the Sudbury II said the engine room of the ship, a Second World War Liberty ship, was flooded and all cargo holds were leaking.

Weather had worsened and there was great danger of the freighter breaching apart. Loss of the engine room meant that even if the sea state there would be no power for the hoists which were being used to remove a cargo of 10,000 tons of cement. Most of the vessel's pumps would also be idled, letting water into the cement.

Big Family Mourns Cowichan Pioneer

DUNCAN — Mourned by 33 grandchildren and more than 50 great-grandchildren is Abraham Johnny, who died suddenly at his home Dec. 23 in his 73rd year.

Born at Quamlohan, the pioneer resident had lived in the Cowichan district all his life. The late Mr. Johnny worked as a brew man and longshoreman until his retirement in 1946.

He is also survived by his widow, two sons and two daughters. He had been predeceased by five children.

Requiem Mass will be said at St. Ann's Catholic Church on Towhalem Road Thursday at 10 a.m. Interment will follow in the churchyard cemetery with first funeral home in charge of arrangements.

F. L. Chadwick

DUNCAN — Retired farmer and long-time resident of this district, Frederick Lawrence Chadwick died in King's Daughters' Hospital Christmas Day in his 72nd year.

Born at Cliffe, Lancashire, England, he came to Duncan from his homeland in May 1925. He had lived in the Cowichan Valley for the past 36 years, farming on Bell McKinnon Road until his retirement in 1950.

Last rites will be observed at St. John's Anglican Church Thursday at 1:30 p.m. Interment will take place in Mount View Cemetery. Sonomas, with first funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Christmas Crashes Hurt Several Here

No traffic fatalities were reported in the Greater Victoria area during Christmas weekend but accidents sent a number of persons to hospitals.

In satisfactory condition at St. Joseph's Hospital last night with arm and face injuries were Gordon West Johnson, 24, of 873-A Swan, and Miss Bonnie Bennett, 23, of 724 Yates.

Their southbound car struck a rock wall on the northern end of the Malahat and careened across the highway into a ditch about 1 a.m. yesterday.

Treated at the same hospital for leg and knee cuts Sunday was motorcyclist Kent Anthony, 1132 Empress, whose cycle collided with a car driven by Ethel Nickola, 2185 Amity Drive, at Balmoral and Blanshard.

In "fairly good" condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital with head and neck injuries is Mrs. Joanna Whittaker, 2034 Chaucer, passenger in a car driven by her husband Kenneth, which was in collision Sunday morning at Foul Bay Road and Oak Bay Avenue with a car driven by Peter Bell, 2465 Central.

In good condition at the same hospital is Kathleen Paul, 45, 1323 Bay, a pedestrian who suffered head and ankle injuries Saturday when struck by a car on Bay Street near Empress.

Injured in various accidents but later released from hospital were Charles Halliday of Port Renfrew, Mrs. Wal Jan Lee, 974 Balmoral, and Sharon Walker, 19, of 1598 Derby.

Cyclist Hurt In Fall

TOFINO — Nine-year-old Wayne Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Parker of Tofino, suffered a concussion when he fell from his bicycle and struck his head on the pavement yesterday.

He was later reported to be conscious and in fair condition at Tofino Hospital.

Mishap occurred while the boy was riding along an icy road and caught his foot in the bicycle chain.

Film Men Stranded Six Days in Nahanni

EDMONTON (CP) — John Langdon, 42, and Blake MacKenzie, 47, both of Edmonton, spent Christmas in Fort Nelson, B.C., after being stranded six days by bad weather in the storied Nahanni River Valley in the Northwest Territories.

Langdon and MacKenzie left Nahanni Butte, N.W.T., 600 miles northwest of Edmonton, Dec. 18 for a 105-mile flight west to McMillan Lake.

They were not heard from until Sunday, when they were spotted near the lake by an RCAF Albatross rescue aircraft from Winnipeg. MacKenzie said Monday in a telephone interview he and Langdon were "just preparing to take off when the rescue aircraft arrived."

The Cessna, owned by a Fort Nelson firm, was chartered for a documentary film about the Nahanni Valley.

Prudential Deal

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—New York's Empire State Building will be sold to the Prudential Insurance Co. for $65,000,000.

About 100 lawyers, accountants, real estate brokers, insurance men and bankers will participate in the title closing.

The formal sale of the world's tallest building will take place in Prudential's headquarters here today.

Each step of the nearly 100 steps to the transaction has been rehearsed carefully. Formalities are expected to take about five hours to complete.

The Empire State Building grosses about $12,500,000 a year.

Forecast for 1962:

Demand for Gas Up 50 Per Cent

CALGARY (CP)—Domestic and U.S. demands for Canadian gas in 1962 will boost the industry's production by almost 50 per cent, the Canadian Gas Association predicted Tuesday.

Sales in the Canadian market will grow 13 per cent, and the full-scale operation of the new 1,400-mile Alberta-California pipeline will increase exports of gas by 67 per cent, said CGA managing director W. H. Dalton.

He predicted a "spending spree" of $107,000,000 for transmission line extensions and $24,000,000 for processing plants, both related directly to increased production.

Sales at home will increase from a 1961 value of $225,000,000 to $260,000,000 next year, and export sales from $37,000,000 to $62,000,000.

President Oakleaf Jones said 1961 totals also represent a significant growth over 1960. Revenue from Canadian sales was 16 per cent ahead from exports, and a total production of 650,000,000 cubic feet was 25 per cent above 1960.

Another prediction is a tripling of gas reserves by 1960, half of the new discoveries to be available for export.

Canadian Table Salt Finds New Market

MONTREAL (CP)—Sifto Salt Ltd. of Montreal announced Tuesday the first sale of Canadian table salt to The Netherlands West Indies, a market formerly supplied by the United States and Europe.

A cargo of 10,200 pounds produced at the company's Amherst, N.S., plant will be shipped to Willemstad, Curacao, N.W.I.

Gap Will Stay

Pulp, Paper Output Broke All Records

MONTREAL (CP)—Output of Canadian pulp and paper mills in 1961 topped all previous years, says R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, in a year-end review.

The total was 12,000,000 tons, up 2 1/2 per cent from 1960.

Average capacity also increased by 2 1/2 per cent and thus the operating ratio of mills as a whole remained at about 85 per cent.

"World capacity to produce pulp and paper products," Mr. Fowler says, "is increasing somewhat faster than demand, while consumption will likely increase in 1962, there appears little chance in the immediate future of any narrowing in the gap between world capacity and consumption."

'Walk on Two Legs' Still China Problem

PEKING (Reuters)—Problems in Communist China's "walking on two legs" policy—moving into the cities while finagling the country's century-old methods with 20th century techniques—are seen most clearly in the vast sprawling transportation complex—human porters, trucks, planes and ships work side by side with old-fashioned carriers such as river junks, donkey carts and China's most prevalent carrier—bicycle.

Lack of adequate up-to-date transportation system to serve 600,000,000 population has been one of China's gravest problems for many years and was long regarded as a primary reason for recurring famine.

Hip-Flask New Year

By CANADIAN PRESS

Most Canadians who like to mix the change of years with a wee drop of spirited refreshment are counting more than ever this year on the house party, the flask in the pocket and that blatant Canadian subterfuge, the bottle under the cabaret table.

Provincial statutes governing public consumption of alcohol combine aridly with local blue laws as New Year's Eve coincides with the Sabbath.

Quebeckers may order alcoholic drinks with meals in the last minutes of 1961, but not in the first moments of 1962. Private bars in most provinces can uncork the bottles only after the old year is gone.

A public liquor drought starting in Ontario before midnight Saturday will last until 1962 is 12 hours old.

The answer for some determined revellers is to band together in rented halls, armed with special permission to serve liquor after midnight.

Many Faiths Join Lutherans

DUNCAN — Clergymen of many faiths attended Christmas Eve services in the chapel of the former Fairbridge school, first held since use of the chapel was granted to the local Lutheran congregation of Pastor Heinrich Thielmann. Rev. Basil Hartley of the Duncan Presbyterian Church assisted Pastor Thielmann.

Purse-Snatcher Overlooks Cheque

A young purse snatcher was in such a hurry to get away from his victim he grabbed about $5 in cash and left $1 and a cheque for $70 when he tossed the purse away.

Miss Gertrude Scott, 2543 Richmond, was walking alone along Fort Street near the Royal Jubilee Hospital nurses' residence about 9 p.m. Saturday when a fleet-footed youth ran up from behind, grabbed her purse and ran away.

The purse was found the next day on Bank Street and returned to its owner. Still in the purse were the cheque, keys, vital papers, a number of postage stamps and $1 tucked away in a small cotton bag.

The culprit, described as about 16 years old and about 5 feet 6 inches tall, was chased by a witness, George Burton, 1731 Coronation, who lost sight of the youth on the hospital grounds.

Royal Blue Line Operator

Bus Service Founder Harold Sangster Dies

Funeral services will be held Thursday for Harold L. Sangster, veteran city public transportation operator, who died here Christmas Day at the age of 57.

Mr. Sangster, who was born in Quebec and came here in 1918, built up the Royal Blue Line bus service which sold out to the B.C. Electric in 1946. Since 1949 he has been manager of People's Finance. He launched The Veterans' Sightseeing and Transportation Co. Ltd., owners and operators of the Royal Blue Lines, in 1923, starting with two cars—a 1916 Studebaker and a 1918 Buick.

The service grew and grew. In January, 1928, the Royal Blue Lines inaugurated its Haultain bus service and a year later began operating buses from the city out to Oak Bay.

By 1938 the company was

Power Pole Blown Up In Kootenays

GRAND FORKS, B.C. (CP) — A bomb shattered a power pole and another was planted under a bridge near here Christmas Eve.

RCMP said there were no injuries in the explosion which sheared off a pole in a transmission line carrying power to a small sawmill.

They said a faulty timing device probably prevented the explosion of six sticks of dynamite found under a road bridge by a guard.

carrying 1,500,000 passengers a year in its 33 vehicles.

Mr. Sangster also operated a bus service in Nanaimo, a U-D-Drive organization here and in Nanaimo and a taxi service in this city.

After the Second World War there were several fights between the Royal Blue Line and the B.C. Electric over routes in the Greater Victoria area.

Mr. Sangster was a firm believer in cheap fares.

In Sept. 1956, however, the B.C. Electric bought out the Royal Blue Lines for some $500,000. The purchase included the Victoria and Nanaimo bus services.

Mr. Sangster resided at 539 Newport.

He is survived by his widow, Phyllis M., a stepson, R. M. Love, Victoria; two brothers, Allan, Victoria, and Irvine, Oak Bay; and two sisters, Mrs. Edna Adams, Los Angeles, and Mrs. P. A. Reid, Victoria.

Buckaroos Meet Masters in Flyers

A tough holiday schedule and a couple of injuries finally stopped the Portland Buckaroos yesterday.

Winners of 14 of their last 15 games and loser only six times in their first 31 games, the Buckaroos took a 5-2 lacing from Flyers at Edmonton in a battle between the division leaders in the Western Hockey League.

The Buckaroos had played Monday evening at home and arrived 25 minutes late for the afternoon game and minus two regulars.

Out of action were veteran defenceman Bill Davidson, on their biggest scoring spree of the season in beating the Blades, 8-5.

Only 1,400 fans were on hand as Vancouver forward Jim Baird, a speedy rookie who started the season with Seattle Totems, got his 18th, 19th and 20th goals, all on breakaways.

Baird's 17th goal was the winner in Monday's game. Last night was just a bad night for goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier, who fanned on three of seven shots in the first period.

Goalkeepers had a bad night too, in San Francisco, where the Spokane Comets edged by the Stars, 7-6, on a goal by Sandy Hucul in the first minute of overtime.

who tore knee ligaments in a game last week against Spokane, and Arlo Goodwin, who has a muscle tear in a leg.

Buckaroos stayed close until midway through the second period, then two Edmonton goals put the points out of reach.

On Monday, before almost 10,000 hometown fans, the Buckaroos made it six straight with a 4-1 victory over Los Angeles, their tenacious checking limiting the league's highest-scoring club to only five shots on goal in the first two periods.

TWO STRAIGHT

More unexpected than Portland's defeat was a second straight victory for the lowly Vancouver Canucks.

Winners, by 2-1, at Seattle on Monday, the Canucks returned home last night to put

Bees' Boss Made Money

SEATTLE (AP)—Herman Franks of Salt Lake City, Bees has been named general manager of the year in the Pacific Coast League and John "Red" Davis of Tacoma field manager of 1961.

Devey Soriano, league president, said the selections were made through a vote by the league's board of directors.

Franks turned in a profit of $23,000 with a last-place team and attendance of only 106,454.

Davis led the Tacoma Giants to the league pennant, following a second-place finish in 1960.

Harvey's Party May Have Worked

As Rangers Pull Out of Tailspin

New York Rangers, responding to coach Doug Harvey's psychological treatment, have apparently righted themselves in time to prevent falling out of a National Hockey League playoff position.

Early season sensations, the Rangers were only two points out of fourth place about a week ago after losing six games in a row. Harvey decided that the club needed loosening up, staged a party at his own expense at which training rules were temporarily forgotten.

It seemed to have the desired result. The Rangers showed their appreciation immediately by knocking off the challenging Detroit Red Wings, 6-1, last Wednesday.

Then they shook up Chicago Black Hawks, 7-3, Saturday night and followed up on Monday with a 6-4 win over the Wings.

Harvey showed the way Christmas night, tying the score at 3-3 in the second period, then scoring what proved to be the winning goal in the last 20 minutes.

All in all, it was quite a night for the New York defence with Harry Howell and Larry Cahen also scoring goals.

Defeat was the fourth in a row for the Wings, who appeared to be ready for a run at the leaders following a six-game unbeaten streak which balanced their record for the season.

While the Rangers were consolidating their grip on third place, the leading Montreal Canadiens proved again that they have the bench strength to cope with injuries.

With Bernie Geoffrion and Henri Richard sitting it out with leg hurts and Dickie Moore favoring his gimpy knee, the defending champions knocked off Boston Bruins, 5-2, to increase their lead to four points.

BIG GAME

Another big game by goalkeeper Jacques Plante helped no end. Plante, who had won the Vezina Trophy five years in a row before hitting a slump last season which saw him relegated to the minor leagues for a spell, is now bidding seriously for a sixth trophy.

Canadiens have allowed but five goals more than Toronto Maple Leafs, but the Leafs have played two fewer games. It leaves Plante and Johnny Bower in a virtual tie for the goalkeeping award.

SETTLE FOR THE

The Leafs, trounced 7-4 by Boston Saturday night, three times failed to hold the lead Monday and finally settled for a 3-3 tie with the Black Hawks at Chicago.

HOMERING ROOKIES

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Ken Hunt with 25 homers in 1961 and Lee Thomas with 24 were only the 19th and 20th rookies in American League history to hit 20 or more home runs in their freshman campaigns.

During his course the new Militiaman will be given all-day training for five days a week. He will live at home and receive the same pay as a regular soldier, plus a living allowance for a total of $173.00 per month.

If you're between 18 and 50 and meet enrolment standards, here's your chance of making a man-size contribution to Canada's defence. Dates of courses are: Nov. 6-Dec. 17, 1961; Jan. 8-Feb. 18, 1962; Feb. 26-Apr. 8, 1962; Apr. 16-May 27, 1962.

Italian Netters Swamped

Aussies Sweep in Davis Cup

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australia's lawn tennis team retained the Davis Cup here Wednesday by winning the doubles match in the challenge round against Italy. It was the 10th Davis Cup win in the last 12 years for the Australians, who seem to keep on producing the best amateurs around despite the inroads made in their ranks by Jack Kramer's professional troupe.

Victory against Italy was not unexpected, but it came unexpectedly easy and was accomplished without veteran Neale Fraser, who couldn't play because of a slow-healing knee injury.

WIN FIRST THREE

Roy Emerson replaced Fraser and the Australians won the first three matches without losing a set. The Italian combination of Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola, in fact, won but 27 games in the nine sets played.

Emerson got the Aussies started right in the first singles with an 8-6, 6-4, 6-0 victory over Pietrangeli and Rod Laver, 1961 Wimbledon champion, followed with a 6-1, 6-4, 6-3 rout of Sirola.

WILT IN SUN

It was close in the singles only in the first set. Pietrangeli took a 5-3 lead, then seemed to wilt in the blazing sun on Tuesday. Emerson fought off two set points, finally won the first set, and then had things his own way against the increasingly-discouraged Italian.

Laver's contest against Sirola was strictly no contest all the way, the Australian showing no effects from the temperature which reached 100 degrees on the court and caused about 100 of the 12,000 spectators to faint.

SAME PLAYERS

Australian captain Harry Hopman stuck with Laver and Emerson in the doubles and Vanni Canalepe, the Italian captain, stayed with his defeated singles players.

The Australians were again far too good, winning by 6-2, 6-3 and 6-4.

ing been pardoned from a federal penitentiary for a life term.

The head of the notorious Jennings gang died of natural causes.

Jennings gave up his rip-roaring desperado days in 1893 when he was sentenced to a life term for a variety of crimes. Thereafter he became a free-lance lawyer, actor, politician, writer and evangelist.

He admitted to killing several men during his lifetime. "Most of them were rich Texans," he said a few years ago.

During an interview he said, "Best gunfighter I ever saw was Jim Stanton. He killed 20 men. When I was 11 years old, I seen him plug a man right between the eyes. The most beautiful gunfight I ever saw."

62 FORD

FAIRLANE

Quality features in the '62 Ford Fairlane

Every time you close a door of the '62 Fairlane, you hear it—the solid sound of quality. A newly designed door latch locks into place with a sure, snug grip. Such quality construction is typical of the entire car.

• Double-Grip Safety Door Latch—this completely new design is yours in the '62 Fairlane. As the door closes, double grip arms centre over the striker pin in a real "bear-hug" grip, locking securely into position. A rubber bushing cushions the closing action and results in a door that closes securely, easily, with the solid "thunk" of quality every single time.

• Posture-Perfect Front Seats—they give you chair high comfort that you'll find especially enjoyable on long trips. The backs are a little higher for extra support and foam padding has been generously applied for additional comfort.

• Service-Free features such as 30,000 miles between chassis lubrication, 30,000 mile or 2-year radiator coolant, self-adjusting brakes and corrosion-resistant underbody bring you a new measure of economy, convenience and quality.

FAIRLANE OFFERS YOU SO MUCH MORE THAN THE COMPACTS

You get big car room in a Fairlane, big as some of the roomiest cars in Ford history. You also enjoy big car ride with a full 115½" wheelbase. Big car performance is yours with an all-new Challenger V-8 engine. And Fairlane gives you the convenience of twice-a-year maintenance with 6,000 miles between routine service stops.

OTHER NEW STANDARDS OF VALUE OFFERED BY THE '62 FAIRLANE

Price! It's exceptionally low. In fact, it's far less than previous Fairlanes; well under many compacts. And you keep right on saving with the world's first economy V-8 engine, or for even greater economy, the new Fairlane Six. Your Ford Dealer gives you a warranty for 12 months or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first.

Certain features mentioned are optional at extra cost.

Fairlane 500 Fordor Sedan... one of Ford of Canada's fine cars... built in Canada.

where are the ladies?

Of British Columbia's 400 dentists, only eleven are women. We wonder why this should be since there is certainly no lack of opportunity for the woman interested in a dental career. The truth is, British Columbia urgently needs dentists - men and women willing to give six years to intense study and training at one of Canada's six university dental schools - people concerned with caring for and protecting their community, anxious to devote their life to a profession highly respected by the community and the nation as a whole.

If you wish the recognition, the personal satisfaction, and the well-earned income that are the result of practicing dentistry, we invite you to write for our informative booklet, Dentistry As A Career.

Discussing reports of her death are Queenie, the horse which works in Beacon Hill Park, and park caretaker Sandy Hayton. Five people yesterday rushed over to Mr. Hayton to report Queenie dead or sick. Queenie, enjoying Christmas holidays, was just relaxing and paid no heed to handfuls of grass held out by visitors to park. (Robin Clark photo.)

Death Report Greatly Exaggerated

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Queenie, the city-owned horse which works in Beacon Hill Park, has days off but no off days, caretaker Sandy Hayton said last night.

"Five people today came over to my cottage to tell me she was sick or dead," he said. "Some even phoned the SPCA."

"Queenie is just independent. On her days off she stays in the deer pen and likes to roll in the mud and sometimes she just lies there. Even goes to sleep."

JUNT IGNORES
"When people talk to her or offer her grass she just ignores them. And then they come to see me."

Queenie, chomping on a carrot sent to her for Christmas, paid no attention to Mr. Hayton.

"Queenie works a four-day week in the park and has Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays off, and she gets a month's vacation every year and all statutory holidays."

SORE SHOULDER
"She went to the vet a couple of years ago when she had a sore shoulder, but that's all."

"She's been working in the park about eight years and for eight years we've had complaints that she was ill or dead."

Winners All Ready For Trip of Lifetime

By ALEC MERRIMAN

The New Year will bring the trip of a lifetime to 76-year-olds Carl and Anna Swanson of Lake Cowichan.

They will step aboard a Canadian Pacific Airlines airliner in Vancouver Jan. 26 for a 10-day King Fisherman all-expenses-paid trip to Mexico.

SPECIAL GUESTS
While in Mexico, they will be special guests of the Lara tour agency, the largest and most complete tour guide service in all of Mexico.

An English-speaking guide and a limousine will be placed at their disposal for the complete tour.

GRAND PRIZE
It is all part of the grand hidden-weight prize Mr. Swanson won in the 1961 edition of The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest.

The Colonist, Canadian Pacific Airlines and De Lara Agencies combine forces to give them what undoubtedly will be the most exciting 10 days of their already long lives.

ONLY LAST WEEK
What will make their trip even more exciting is that they will return from Mexico City to Vancouver on a new Canadian Pacific Airlines Jet Super DC-8, which was only placed into service last week.

The return flight will take only 5½ hours.

SPEEDY ONCE
The trip from Vancouver to Mexico will be made in a luxury Britannia turbo-prop jet aircraft in eight hours, which was considered a speedy trip until CPA put the new all-jet aircraft into service.

The Swansons have intermingled their busy Christmas preparations — they have a large family — with trip preparations.

EVERY NEED
They have had their vaccinations, and reservations are completed with De Lara Agencies. CPA Victoria representative Jack Hann is attending to their every need. Flight bags have been issued. Their De Lara guide will be waiting for the Swansons when they touch down at Mexico City Airport in the luxury CPA Britannia.

TO THEIR HOTEL
He will guide them through customs and then to their Mexico City hotel.

Next day the tour will include the Floating Gardens of Xochimilco and a seat of honor at the bullfight arena.

The 10-day tour will include time for shopping and sight-seeing in Mexico City.

UNIVERSITY CITY
There'll be a drive through rural Mexico to Acapulco, with stops at the new ultra-modern University City, Cuernavaca and overnight at the silver centre city of Taxco.

They will spend two nights at the famous resort town of Acapulco, where they will be feted to a fiesta yacht cruise.

SANDY BEACHES
They will have time to relax and swim on the beautifully warm and sandy Acapulco beaches.

It is at Acapulco where Mr. Swanson plans to take in a charter deep-sea fishing trip to catch a giant sailfish.

Broad Street, Chinatown

Two Downtown Malls To Change City's Face

Double Project High On '62 Works List

Moves to change the face of Victoria with the construction of two downtown pedestrian malls will begin early next year.

The malls planned are on Broad Street, between Broughton and Fort, and on part of the 500 block of Flagard Street, in the heart of Chinatown.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgell, chairman of city public works committee, said last night the question of the Broad Street mall will be one of the first things tackled by his committee in the new year.

HOW MUCH EACH
"It isn't a dead issue by any means," he said. "The merchants have asked us to find out what it would cost so they can discover how much each would have to pay."

Suggested earlier this year, turning the one-block section of Broad Street into a mall with painted pavement, benches and a fountain would cost about $10,000.

AWKWARD TURN
Blocking the section of Broad Street from traffic would also remove an awkward dogleg turn at Fort Street, city officials pointed out when the suggestion first arose.

The Chinatown mall was suggested last month in the Capital Region Planning Board's urban renewal report to city council.

WALL TO WALL
It would involve closing the 500 block Flagard Street to vehicular traffic from Government Street and laying a wall-to-wall pavement across the present roadway.

As suggested by the CRPB report, the mall would extend 100 yards west from Government Street, including most of the retail stores in Chinatown.

CHINESE MOTIF
Access would be provided for trucks and cars from the Store Street end. The plan is part of an over-all plan for the rehabilitation of the Chinatown area.

Trees, shrubs and decorations would carry through a Chinese motif with benches provided.

"It seems like quite a good idea," Ald. Edgell said. "Naturally, we will check with Chinatown to make sure everyone is happy with it. "It could be we will have two malls next year."

End Six-Year Fight

Continuing B.C. Grant Birthday Gift to City?

The "birthday gift"—if it comes—will end a bitter fight waged over the past six years by Mayor Percy Scurrah.

Government spokesmen have hinted recently that the government might be about to change its policy of not giving the city grants in lieu of taxes.

This would bring the provincial situation into line with the federal government which does give grants to the city.

Equal to the amount of taxes which would normally be paid on its property here.

First suggestion that the government might be about to change its policy came last week when Mayor Scurrah was solidly opposed to the city selling a Kingston Street lot to the government one day.

was visited by deputy municipal affairs minister J. Everett Brown the next, and the following day city council agreed to sell the land to the government.

TAKEN FROM ROLL
Basis of Mayor Scurrah's original objection to selling the land to the government was the fact that it would be immediately taken off the tax roll.

Mr. Scurrah has consistently refused to comment on Mr. Brown's visit and yesterday refused to comment on the rumor that the government is ready to give a grant in lieu of taxes.

Adding point to the rumor is the fact that early next year the government will ask city council's permission to establish a legislative precinct in James Bay.

Idea of the precinct—bounded by Belleville, Michigan, Douglas and Oswego—would be to, in effect, reserve the area to allow for government expansion.

"You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours" was the way one informant put it.

we have had—you'd think they would keep this information to themselves because we are competition.

The commission's job is to encourage industries to establish here.

"At present we are attempting to get the background of industrial commissions across Canada—their terms of reference, the laws which govern their activities, how their membership is composed, and how they work," acting chairman Ald. Michael Griffin said last night. "We've had some pretty comprehensive reports back."

"What has surprised me is the tremendous co-operation

Victoria's newly-formed industrial commission will hold its first regular meeting early next month.

Home Rifled $8.25 Taken

Thieves ransacked a city home Christmas Day and made off with $8.25.

The culprits broke a latch on a rear door at the home of G. E. Lane, 543 Dunedin, and went through a desk in the living room and drawers in a bedroom while the Lanes were away between 5.30 and 11 p.m.

NOTES TO YOU: Ever since they started making those Christmas crackers in Japan the jokes printed on tiny slips of paper inside have been getting worse.

We did considerable research on this subject Christmas Day, retrieving the scattered jokes from sundry floors where they lay.

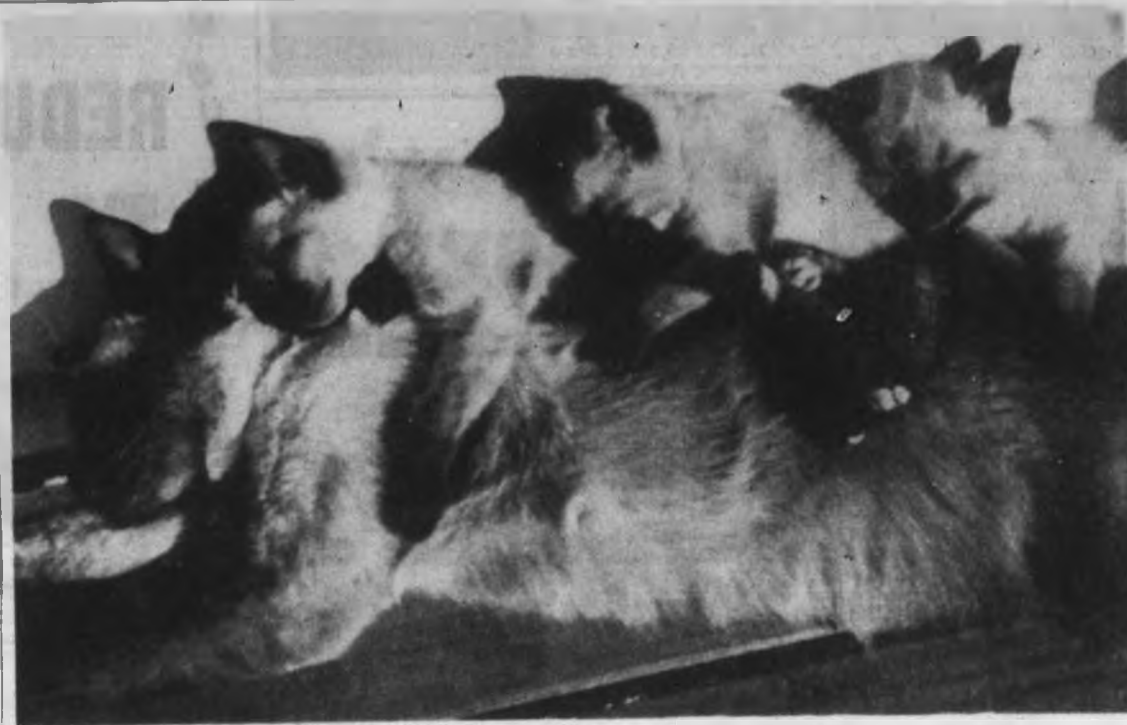

The only thing we concluded was that the jokes were

TB Clinic Tenders Called in January

Tenders for construction of a $75,000 tuberculosis clinic on the grounds of Royal Jubilee Hospital will be called sometime in January, an official said last night.

The new centre will have clinic accommodation, X-ray facilities and office space, serving residents from all parts of Vancouver Island.

Cost of the structure will be met with $45,000 from the B.C. Tuberculosis Society and $15,000 from each of the two senior governments.

'Siesta' Gets Prize

"Siesta on Pa" is the title of this photograph which won first prize for 15-year-old Shirley Terry, 770 Claremont Avenue, in Victoria Junior SPCA photographic contest.

SPCA Contests

Girl Dual Winner For Essay, Art

Fifteen-year-old Shirley Pike, 2635 Belmont, won first prize in both the essay contest and the art contest conducted by Victoria Junior SPCA.

Lee Larson, 16, placed second in both contests. Margaret White gained third prize for essays and Sandra Turner third for arts.

Winners in the photographic contest were Shirley Terry, Martha Morgan and Lee Larson.

Contests were organized by Mrs. J. W. Redpath.

Older Boys Here For House Session

Experience in debating and governmental procedure will be gained in Victoria this week by nearly 100 young men from all over British Columbia.

The opportunity will be provided in the 31st session of the Older Boys' Parliament of B.C., held in the legislative buildings under the sponsorship of the Inter-Church Parliamentary Committee.

Honorary titles ranging from lieutenant governor to MLA will be bestowed upon the youths during the session, which opens at 8 p.m. today.

Three UBC students from Vancouver will play leading roles in the session. "Premier" Ken Jensen will lead the debate. John Curtis will be Speaker and Rick Higgs will be Opposition Leader.

Spot of Badwill Shatters Christmas TV Silence

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

LET NOTHING YOU DISMAY:

On Christmas Day one of the Seattle television stations was busy flashing merry messages of goodwill on the screen when one of the slides stuck.

There was a terrible grinding noise then silence—broken only by the flustered voice of an exasperated announcer who said: "This is . . . tape."

THE THINGS THEY SAY:

Friend of ours defines a pedestrian as "A husband who didn't believe his wife when she told him the family needed two cars."

NOTES TO YOU:

Ever since they started making those Christmas crackers in Japan the jokes printed on tiny slips of paper inside have been getting worse.

We did considerable research on this subject Christmas Day, retrieving the scattered jokes from sundry floors where they lay.

The only thing we concluded was that the jokes were better in the cheaper (89 cents per dozen) crackers than the more expensive ($2.50 for eight) variety.

Here are a few . . . "He who scratches is last."

"Wow/Nobody would fall off his chair at that one."

How about this comment about a starlet who just became engaged?

"They're made for each other. He owns oil wells, and she's always gushing."

Well, at 31 cents that's a pretty expensive joke.

If you were really lucky you could have ended up with this one . . .

"Man leading wife to drive: 'Go on green, stop on red, take it easy when I turn white.'"

Or . . . "A dollar to a doughnut is far from the odds it used to be."

Ho, hum! Who's got the energy to laugh on Christmas Day anyway?

POWER POLETHON:

The B.C. Electric had to rush its underground wiring work in the downtown area in order to honor retiring Victoria Mayor Percy B. Scurrah.

The work wasn't due to be completed just yet, but the B.C. brass thought it would be a fine thing if Mayor Scurrah was able to lop down a power pole as part of the removal program while he was still in office.

The ceremony takes place outside the Central Building, 600 View, at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Mayor Scurrah will act like a logger, wielding a whirling power saw to bring the chosen pole crashing to the ground.

ROOM AT THE TOP:

Yet another of the brighter boys from CHEKTV is leaving to seek fame and fortune elsewhere.

Charles Davis, who, judging by his frequent on-camera appearances, has been a real mainstay of the local operation, will join the CBC in Vancouver starting Jan. 1.

"I'll be on both CBUT and CBU radio," says Chuck. "That is what I call a great Christmas present."

SEEN IN PASSING:

An advertisement for an auction at an Interior brewery says everything must be sold "lock, stock and barrel."

Well, maybe it was just a small brewery.

SMOKE OF THE TIMES:

A headline we spotted yesterday read: "Pole Blasted in Douk Area."

Ah! Race violence again!

Room for 850 Students

Varsity Calls Block Bids

Tenders have been called for construction of a $400,000 classroom block to accommodate 850 students at Victoria University's Gordon Head campus.

Plans and specifications will be available tomorrow at the Government Street office of the architects, Wade, Stockhill and Armour. Deadline for bids is 5 p.m. Jan. 17.

A and turning ceremony marking the beginning of construction of the Gordon Head campus will be held Jan. 20 near the planned site of a student union building on the east side of Pinnery Road, followed by a reception in the gymnasium.

Both the classroom and the student union building are expected to be completed by September when the fall term opens. Architects now are drawing working plans for the $300,000 student union building, completed by September, 1963.

on which tenders will be called in February.

A third structure for the Gordon Head campus still in the planning stage is a $2,000,000 science building. Development manager Floyd Fairclough said last night he will meet today with architects of the public works department in an effort to iron out last minute changes for the building which is expected to be completed by September, 1963.

Margaret Quenneville enjoying a quiet Christmas in hospital. . . . Lee Howe and his wife Lucy being delayed by unexpected guests. . . . Mike Grier looking forward to the New Year. . . . Les Motterhead holding his head. . . . Bill and John Collins enjoying a Christmas dinner. . . . Jack Peters paying his respects. . . . Curtis Mitchell looking forward to the boating season. . . .

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: I started to date when I was 13. I know now I was too young but nobody could tell me anything. I went with fellows who were too old—and too fast. One man was even married and I knew it but I dated him anyway.

Three weeks ago I met a great guy at a church affair. Harold is everything I want in a fellow. He's a clean-minded college boy with wonderful ideas, and he treats me like a lady. We've had five dates. When I'm with him I feel like the luckiest girl alive.

Last night Harold was snook. He had heard some terrible stories about me. I've been a perfect lady in his presence and he thinks the stories are lies. I wish they were—but they aren't.

Shall I deny everything and hope he believes me.—PAULA.

Dear Paula: No girl should attempt to defend her reputation. A good reputation needs no defending. A poor reputation is indefensible.

People change. You have the right to be judged on the basis of what you are today.

Dear Ann Landers: My son who is 21 asked me to write. He went with a girl for three years. She's two years older than he is and she has a very good paying job. He's still in college.

Last month she talked him into giving her an engagement he knows she'll cry if he goes in person and he hates tears.—HIS MOTHER.

Dear Mother: Tell your son to put on his raincoat and go over and break the news like a man. A fellow who would take three years of a girl's time (even though she is older) owes her the courtesy of a personal farewell visit.

My son says he has thought it over and has decided he's not ready for marriage. He claims the girl pushed him into the engagement and now he wants out.

The question is, would it be all right if he wrote her a letter breaking it off? He says

Capt. Marguerite Lloyd is spending the holiday season with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Butler, 1678 Freeman. Capt. Lloyd is a graduate of the Royal Jubilee Hospital and the Salvation Army Officers' College. She will leave on Jan. 2 for Toronto where she will resume her studies at the School of Social Service.

Susanne McElmoyle Home

Miss Susanne McElmoyle, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. McElmoyle, Rockland Avenue, arrived home Saturday evening from Vancouver to spend the holidays with her family. She is teaching in Vancouver at Trafalgar School.

Shower Party

A shower to honor Christ- mas bride-elect Miss Patricia Duggan, whose marriage to Mr. John A. McDonald of Vancouver will take place this week, was held in the Leslie Drive home of Miss Sharon Ralph. Corsages were presented to the bride and her mother, Mrs. R. J. Duggan. The many beautiful gifts were concealed in a decorated wedding cake and presented to the bride by Lynne Ralph.

Among those invited were the bride's mother, Mrs. R. J. Duggan, Mrs. G. R. Easter, Mrs. E. J. Payne, Mrs. T. Cooper, Mrs. Eric Davis of Kitchener, Mrs. George Cooper, Mrs. Brian Clements, Mrs. Frank Christian, Mrs. Stan Ralph, Miss Jessie Nicolson, Miss Anne Ledson, Miss Joan Parsons, Miss Jeanette Smith, Miss Evelyn Cooper, Miss Linda Bergstrom, Miss Judy McLeod, Miss Jennifer Duggan, Miss Linda Garraway and Miss Gail Reburn.

Garden Notes

Shame About Gifts

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

A florist friend of mine tells me flowering houseplants are becoming increasingly popular as Christmas gifts and, reports his business this past season in such plants better than ever before. This is a healthy sign and I am delighted folks are beginning to realize what long-lasting delight may be had from a potted flowering plant.

I am a bit worried over the ultimate fate of these gift houseplants, though, for a lot of them now are in the hands of people who don't have the foggiest idea how to look after them. It would be a shame if this new-found enthusiasm for indoor gardening was dampened by the early demise of the plants.

Most of our common presentation plants are raised in a cool greenhouse, where they enjoy a humid atmosphere, plenty of light and a much lower temperature than you would suppose. When they are transposed suddenly into an overheated room and set down close to a sizzling radiator, or in the sirocco-like blast from a hot air register, the shock is too much for them.

The general requirements for Christmas gift plants are simple enough—a cool room, fresh air, lots of light, some air humidity and intelligent watering.

While these general rules apply to nearly all houseplants, there are some kinds commonly sold in the Christmas season which require a little special treatment if they are to give their best and most long-lasting display.

Probably the most glamorous of our gift houseplants are the azaleas. These lovely flowers have been at least two years in the raising and it is a pity to see them go downhill so rapidly through incorrect treatment—and especially the watering. City water isn't at all to their liking and but rain water, melted snow or the defrostings from an electric refrigerator. They need daily watering, for the peat-like soil should never be allowed to become really dry. They like lots of light and a temperature in the 50 to 60-degree range.

The exotic Mexican poinsettia likes a bit more warmth than most of our houseplants—around 60 to 70 degrees—but they detest drafts and, if an ill-fitting window permits cold currents of air to blow down the back of its neck, the plant will show its resentment by dropping its buds and leaves. Details on how to get a second year of bloom from a poinsettia were given in this column last week.

The most important point in the care of a cyclamen is to keep it very cool, for these plants detest temperatures over 55 degrees and won't last long in an overheated room. They are hounds for water when in full bloom, sometimes requiring as much as two waterings a day. Water should be applied around the edge of the pot, pouring it very slowly, to avoid lodging moisture in the depression on the top of the bulb. Never allow the drainage water to remain in the saucer, for roots and bulb will rot at the drop of a hat if in constantly soggy soil.

The Jerusalem cherry—an attractive little member of the potato family—likes a temperature in the 55-60 degree range but won't complain too much at 65. It has a great fondness for having its leaves and berries sprayed frequently with a fine mist of plain water. Like its cousin the tomato, the Jerusalem cherry demands pure air and will drop its berries and leaves if there is the slightest trace of cooking gas in the atmosphere.

Except for the casti, I don't think any flowering plant is so tolerant of neglect as the geranium. Give the plant lots of sunshine, but in a very cool room, keeping the soil a little on the dry side. If your geranium grows skinny and tall, it is due to too much warmth, too much water or not enough sunshine.

Fast Gallup to Nowhere

Harpers' last issue has a delicious little spoof purporting to be the results of a survey conducted by Benjamin Franklin on the question (among others): "Are you content with the present System of Government, that we be ruled from London?" (Or, should we have an American Revolution or shouldn't we?)

To the first question, 1,116 people did say they were satisfied with the present System and that we should not change; 993 were not satisfied and said we should; and 422 did ask What System? (These last included many Frontiersmen). 1,479 did say they had not thought on the matter. The survey concluded sadly that "Public support for the proposed War" was so doubtful that the "Continental Congress should be disbanded and that plans for Independence be laid on the shelf."

Funny idea, isn't it? Or is it? I can't dispel the suspicion that, if Gallup had been around in 1776, he'd have conducted such a survey and got results not far from the above and the American Revolution would have been shelved. Of course, there's a school of thought that clings wistfully and certainly hopelessly to the conviction that the American Revolution was a ghastly mistake, that if we'd stayed in the Commonwealth, we'd have avoided the First World War, the Second World War and much other unpleasantness. This is the If School of History in which I am a world authority and which I plan to teach at Phillips Exeter Academy in my old age. ("If Hannibal hadn't had those elephants?" "If Alexander didn't drink so much?" "If Carthage had won." Look's recent essay on "If Hitler Had Won" is the most distinguished recent example of If history and hereby wins the Crosby Prize for If Journalism for 1961. Let's get on with it, shall we?)

This leads me rather tortuously to President Kennedy's current rating, according to Dr. George Gallup, who says that 78 per cent of the American people approve of the way President Kennedy handled his job during the first 10 months in office.

That is quite a lot like the situation faced by "Camelot," the musical which had a $2,000,000 advance sale and was reported in Toronto to be "in trouble." Commented Burgess Meredith at the time: "That's the kind of trouble I'd like to have."

A 78 per cent approval by the electorate is the kind of trouble the president thoroughly enjoys, but it is trouble nevertheless. As Kenneth Crawford points out in Newsweek:

"Mr. Kennedy himself has been deeply suspicious of presidential popularity, not only because it can vanish as magically as it develops but because it can be more indicting than tribute. Addressing the National Press Club in 1960, when he was merely an aspirant for the Democratic nomination, Sen. Kennedy pointed out that it had been strong presidents like Lincoln who had been richest in enemies and weak presidents like Coolidge who had been most popular. An effective president, he said, must always be willing to serve the people at the risk of incurring their momentary displeasure."

Yet having said it, Kennedy for quite a while seemed singularly reluctant to incur any displeasure or to make enemies.

Still, Kennedy it's encouraging to note, hasn't drunk too deeply of the stuff. When the tough and unpopular decisions had to be made, he made 'em.

Just the same, this president takes polls as a hypochondriac takes his pulse. It's a form of neurosis and it should be severely discouraged. The ancients took counsel from the flights of birds, sometimes the entrails of sheep.

On the whole, I think the entrails of sheep are much more reliable.

Hollywood Today

Care-Of Perry Mason

HOLLYWOOD (NANI) — Raymond Burr has sent 2,000 donations to CARE—in the names of his friends and acquaintances. It's Perry Mason's way of saying thank you for winning all those lawsuits and earning all that money.

Zsa Zsa Gabor is running her publicity office from her sickroom at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

Spyro Kouras may sign Nancy Westbrook for 20th-Fox pictures. Nancy modeled those Oleg Cassini ensembles for Jackie Kennedy.

Mital Gaynor and Las Vegas Impresario Morris Lansburgh are cooking something new for New York's Carnegie Hall—a one-woman Girl Show!

Alberto Cardone is listed as the director of "Demon and Pythias" in Rome. But the movie was directed by Curt Bernhardt, American citizen. The Italian directed a few scenes in order to land the government subsidy for the picture which stars Guy Williams and Don Burnett.

I think it's a mistake to star Warren Beatty as the "Laughing Cavalier." Young Warren is as modern as tomorrow. He'll be lost in a costume epic.

Another second generation newcomer—Chris Crosby, 19-year-old son of Bob. He wants to be an actor and has hired an agent... May he be as lucky as six foot-six Danny Millard (son of May), who has a contract at Warner Brothers.

Natalie Wood, by the way, is receiving mail from B. J. Wagner fans who would like to see him reinstated as Nat's ever-loving husband. But that would be too much, says Miss Wood, and too late.

Joan Collins lingers in London because of that British actor. And besides, what does she have to come home to, with the aforementioned Beatty all tied up? Joan almost ruined her film career waiting around for him.

In the soon-to-be-released Hayley Mills picture, "Whistle Down the Wind," Hayley mistakes an escaped murderer for Christ returned to earth. I saw the movie in London, and the young blonde actress is good, as always.

Someone at a party the other night said that Hayley would have been good as the vicious liar in "The Children's Hour." At once I said a horrified "Oh, no." But, thinking it over, the shock effect of this sweet young Miss in such a dreadful role might have been interesting. Liars can be pretty and convincing.

When Bea Wacht's daughter Jenny was a little girl, she seemed to be very temperamental. Now that she is a young lady she is being very co-operative, giving interviews and winning friends with her candid talk about her role in "Katie's Lot," for producer Ed Khrushcher... The same producer has bought the rights to Hecht's "Winklerberg" play about the late Bohemian poet Maxwell Anderson. Paul Newman is wanted for the leading role. And the movie will be made in New York where Paul and wife Joanne prefer to live.

Bobby Darin's friends have just about forgiven him for waking them up at 2:30 in the morning, with news of his son's birth. Bobby, a "Sour Apple" nominee, will be nice to the Hollywood press next year. Cross his heart and hope to scowl!

Priests Battle In Bethlehem

BETHLEHEM (Reuters)—Greek Orthodox and Roman Catholic priests fought with sticks and bottles on Christmas Eve in the Church of the Nativity here—believed to be built over the grotto where Mary gave birth to the infant Christ.

The clash occurred when the Orthodox priests tried to prevent the Catholic ones from standing on the church roof which the Orthodox sect claims belongs to them.

Security authorities stepped in at once to stop the clash. There were no serious injuries.

Latin Worshippers Killed by Explosion

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—At least 50 worshippers were killed Christmas Eve in an outbreak of Colombia's persistent banditry and terrorism when a bomb exploded in the midst of a religious procession. Eighty persons were reported under arrest in the hunt for the terrorists.

The explosion occurred in the square of an artillery battalion barracks in the west Colombian city of Bogota, 300 miles southwest of Bogota.

A communique placed the death toll at 50. Reports from the scene said 51 were killed and more than 110 injured.

The bomb went off as a procession of worshippers bearing a figure of the Christ child passed through the square to place the figure in a manger. A woman said she saw a man carrying a bundle through the crowd and that he was one of the victims.

One report said the victims were injured by nails and other metal fragments.

The infantry, the officer's club and other installations were badly damaged.

Gen. Alberto Ruiz Novoa, Colombian armed forces commander, said terrorists apparently planned the bombing to gain entry to the barracks and steal arms and ammunition.

A decade of civil war in Colombia officially ended in 1947 with a political truce between the country's two major parties, the Liberals and the Conservatives. But many of the combatants took to the hills as bandits, and hardly a week goes by without an attack on non-combatants.

U.K. Panic Button Saves 502 Pilots

LONDON (CP)—About the only people in the world who relish being blown up are air force pilots heading for a crash.

The pilot ejector seat, first conceived by Britain's Martin-Baker Aircraft Company in 1944 and put into service in 1948, has saved 502 lives in the last 13 years.

Recently the company celebrated the news that the invention had blasted 100 pilots to safety in 1961 alone. Nearly 40 countries fit the company's seats in their planes.

The first ejector seats were comparatively primitive. After pulling back the canopy of the doomed plane the pilot fired one or two cartridges which shot him out of the cockpit.

Once in the air he had to wait until parachutes stabilized the seat and then, presuming he had time, unharness the seat and pull the ripcord of his own parachute.

Today the pilot merely pulls a handle, 24 cartridges explode him clear of the aircraft and everything else is done automatically.

The company now is working on a low-level ejection seat which is first blown clear by a rocket, 400 feet in the air by a rocket.

James Martin the company's 65-year-old chairman and chief designer, says blueprints are being prepared to keep pace with the latest aircraft developments and seats are being planned which will eject pilots safely from vertical take-off fighters.

Miami's Malls Spreading Fast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A palm-lined shopping mall has just had its first birthday, and other cities are asking how it's doing.

Fine, thank you, replies Miss Lee Karwick, executive director of the eight-block traffic-free oasis in the heart of tourist-busy Miami Beach.

"We are inundated from all over, from California to New England, with inquiries about the mall," Miss Karwick reported. "There must be a growing interest in such projects."

Interest in them is growing, too, elsewhere in the Miami metropolitan area, comprising most of Dade County, where retailing methods are changing.

Tentative plans have been drawn for malls along two of Miami's principal thoroughfares, Flagler Street and Miami Avenue, which criss-cross near the centre of town.

They are part of a proposed program to revitalize the central business district, which has dwindled in importance due to a business exodus to the suburbs.

CENTRES SPRING UP

So marked has the spread of the trend been in the 2,000 square-mile metropolitan area that a new shopping centre was popping up every month until the middle of 1961.

Now, with more than 70 centres operating, the trend is slackening. However, the biggest of all is under construction.

The new one, a 70-acre project called Dadeland, expects to open in 1962. There will be a shopping mall right with in the shopping centre. The 37 prospective tenants of the centre expect to have more than 20,000 customers daily. The centre also includes apartment houses, thus providing customers.

Of the shops on the Miami Beach mall, Miss Karwick said: "For those who merchandise, business is very good. For those who try to let the mall carry them, it's a different story."

Merchandising has paid off elsewhere, too. A "never close" drug store in a Miami area surrounded by "for rent" signs is doing a thriving business. It has a parking lot for customers in a corner of the lot is a large television set with benches for the public.

Lots of Savvy or Just Naive?

Pugilistic Stew Udall Thrives in Political Stew

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—Of all the Kennedy cabinet, no one seems to attract more political trouble than the idealistic, hardheaded offspring of Mormon stock whose great domain ranges over the wildlife, the resources, the Indians and the hinterland of the United States.

Stewart Udall has only to suggest that too many statutes clutter up the national capital and immediately he meets a roar of disapproval from local residents. He goes out west to survey park sites and is ordered off a range by a Kansas rancher.

The interior secretary, sympathetic with the views of American oil producers, recommends that President Kennedy reduce oil import quotas and the president rejects his proposal, deciding to leave the quotas unchanged.

An Arizona lawyer, and one of Kennedy's strongest supporters, Udall makes some moves in attempts to speed up Canadian ratification of the controversial Columbia River power treaty and is berated by the pro-Democratic Washington Post for interfering with a Canadian internal squabble.

FIGHTS BARRIERS

Be it power, oil, statues or parks, the rugged, crested outdoorsman seems to invite trouble and controversy. The reason, suggests a member of his staff, is that basically Udall is an idealist who thinks in straight lines and attempts to ram through barriers to get to his goal.

Some of his political colleagues are not too sure. One said he is frankly puzzled. At times he felt Udall had a great deal of political savvy. At other times he felt Udall was naive.

The 41-year-old Udall, a former college star basketball player, wartime bomber gunner and mountaineer who scaled Japan's 12,397-foot Mt. Fuji, seems more comfortable in the great outdoors than in the confines of a cabinet post.

Whenever he gets the chance, he's off on a hike with his wife and the four oldest of his six children.

MEETS HIS MATCH

But even an innocent hike can get Udall into trouble. One muddy, wet day last spring he tramped into a suburban inn with a group of hikers and was told by an angered innkeeper's wife to get his muddy boots off her floor and eat his lunch outside. He did.

Perhaps one reason for the penchant for controversy is that Udall has a pugilistic appearance. He has a long, hard face, with small, rather narrow eyes that seem to be constantly measuring the opponent for the first blow. In Congress, where he was a member for six years, he gained a reputation as one who thrived on close and hard fighting.

That rugged determination and self-will also may come from his Mormon ancestry of Zion-building days. His great-grandfather, David, left England to live in "a land of free land where the kingdom of God will be built." His mother sprang from the notorious Mormon John D. Lee who led a massacre of a wagon train of Missourians in 1857.

Welensky May Back Tshombe Against UN

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky of the Rhodesian Federation has called a special cabinet meeting for Wednesday to consider a possible change in Southern Rhodesia's policy toward the strife-torn Congo.

Welensky, who has often voiced backing for President Moise Tshombe's secessionist Katanga province, said Monday he is convening the cabinet because Acting Secretary-General Thant of the United Nations has called for howitzers, tanks and more troops for the Congo.

Welensky denied UN allegations that Rhodesia had allowed a mercenary-manned military convoy to cross Katanga. His country's policy permitted "normal and traditional" trade but did not allow the export of military supplies into Katanga.

Usual Protests Launched

New Zealand Grinds To Holidays Halt

AUCKLAND (CP)—The usual protests have been launched in New Zealand against the habit of closing down almost all aspects of national life for three weeks at Christmas. As usual, people go right on with the three-week siege.

Several factors make the annual holiday shutdown tighter and more concentrated in New Zealand than in most other countries.

The summer holidays fall at the Christmas-New Year period and schools close for the long vacation early in December.

Above all, New Zealanders are eager to do just what their friends are doing in the same way and at the same time. So they cheerfully face expense and inconvenience to be able to take their holiday together. The resulting shutdown brings dislocation in production, business and the professions.

It sends prices skyrocketing at beaches and other holiday resorts. A small seaside cottage, normally renting at about $10 a week, is likely to cost at least $60 a week. Boarding houses, motels and camps are grossly overcrowded and service extremely poor.

Firmly wedded to their traditional customs, New Zealanders insist on their right to conduct holidays in their own fashion. Underestimated by the night of Santa Claus perching in heavy jackets and beards in 80-degree temperatures in the stores, they proceed to eat full English-style Christmas dinners of turkey and plum pudding as temperatures soar even higher.

Life for those left in the cities is harrowing. It is impossible to find a plumber or an electrician. Stores open for only two or three days in mid-week or shut down completely. This year the Associated Chambers of Commerce is making a new assault on the system, claiming the universal holiday idea is being "eroded."

EXCHANGES CLOSE

The stock exchanges close on Christmas Eve until Jan. 15. A few brokers have yielded this year to demands that they reopen for other business early in January, but it remains to be seen whether they are kept busy enough to stay open in future.

China Greet Albanians

PEKING (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China had "cordial and friendly talk" with a visiting Communist Albanian delegation. Peking radio said Saturday night.

The Albanians are in Peking on an economic mission following their split with the Soviet Union. The Albanians say the Soviet bloc has thrown an economic blockade around their country.

With full employment, and far more jobs than workers, holiday time has become the standard period for job switching among those who are in any way unsettled.

Companies often find themselves with large and unexpected gaps in the ranks of their employees when work resumes.

Even Yellow-Billed Loon

Birds Counted Everywhere

A record 121 species, representing an estimated 40,000 birds, were spotted here during the weekend in the 62nd annual Audubon Society bird count.

David Stirling, who organized the count with Thomas Briggs, said the high count could be attributed to mild weather here, poor weather in the north and a well-conducted counting operation. An area covering a 15-mile radius of Victoria was covered by 30 members of the Victoria Natural History Society.

Unusual sightings this year included a yellow-billed loon at Clover Point, an Arctic bird which has been sighted only three times in B.C. according to Audubon records; a white-throated sparrow in the yard of Mrs. Laura Gosling, 3854 Blenkinsop, a large number of North American wigwags, robins, skylarks and bluebirds; several flocks of band-tailed pigeons, a whistling swan at Prospect Lake and a 10,000-bird flock of starlings at Island View Beach.

The annual Audubon count is made across the continent on a day between Dec. 20 and Jan. 3. There will be a count in the Sidney area Saturday.

Only Duller Students Want Teaching Jobs

MONTREAL (CP)—A survey of 16 Protestant high schools in Quebec province showed that teaching as a career appeals mainly to the duller student.

The survey was carried out among 1,409 Grade 11 students in both rural and urban areas of the province.

WERE ADVERSE

Egil Pederson of the McGill Institute of Education said both male and female students with low marks were inclined to look with favor upon a teaching career. Those with high marks generally were adverse.

He blamed this in part on teachers who, he said, seemed to be important agents of teacher recruitment.

PRESENT CASE

"They should, therefore, do an active job of improving the status of their own profession by encouraging their best students, rather than their poorest students—as seems to be the case at present—to enter teaching."

Other survey findings were that girls from urban schools were more likely to choose teaching as a career than were girls from rural areas. For boys this was just the reverse, with more rural than urban boys indicating interest.

MORE STRONGLY

Boys from low-income families appeared more strongly attracted to teaching than boys from high-income families.

"The boys indicating that they were likely to select teaching came typically from families in which the fathers were employed in relatively low-prestige occupations."

Mr. Pederson also said that while salaries were important to the decisions of male students, they were not to female students.

Besides salaries, reasons given for rejection of teaching were lack of prestige, poor chances for advancement and the amount of responsibility involved.

Florida to Canada to Where?

Controversial Gifts Vanish

TRACADIE, N.B. (CP)—Rev. Arthur Duguay, Roman Catholic parish priest, said Monday night Christmas gifts sent to his parishioners at nearby Brantville from a United States Air Force base have disappeared.

Father Duguay said the gifts, flown more than 2,500 miles to this northern New Brunswick community from the Macdill base near Tampa, Fla., just seemed to be "gone with the wind."

WILLING TO ACCEPT

He said he met with a number of parishioners in his office Sunday and the people expressed willingness to accept the presents, that included fruit, a box of chocolate bars and 17 cartons of clothing.

"I returned to my work," he said, "and when I returned, they were gone. I haven't seen them nor heard of them since."

NOTES WITH TREES

The charitable project started when the airmen found notes from Brantville families tied to imported Christmas trees asking help for Christmas, and decided to do what they could.

Rev. A. Trudel, parish priest at Tracadie, first condemned the practice of tying notes to trees and said people in his parish were not in serious need. When the gifts arrived in Tracadie addressed to Father Trudel, Claude Savole, member of the legislature for Gloucester, called them an "insult." He said the fruit, three cartons, were mostly spoiled and the clothing was unuseable. The goods were then taken over by Father Duguay, who said his people were thankful for the gifts and appreciated the efforts of the airmen.

Gone to U.S.?

Schoolgirl, Teacher Disappear

CANFIELD, Ont. (UPI)—Provincial police, U.S. border officials and police in 11 states are seeking a married teacher, charged with abduction, and a 15-year-old girl.

Charles Richeson, 20, and Susan Vermette were last seen by a neighbor Dec. 21 driving away from Susan's home.

FEW MOMENTS

The girl stepped off a school bus. A car was waiting outside the house and the driver called to the girl. She spoke to the driver for a few moments and then got into the car which sped away.

Police speculated the car may have headed for the border.

SEPARATE SCHOOL

Richeson was fired from Bishop McCarthy separate school here, which Susan attended, Dec. 19.

He is also wanted in Hamilton on a fraud charge involving a car purchase.

Richeson had a wife and three-week-old baby in Cayuga, Ont.

Clerics Stage March

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—About one hundred ban-the-bomb marchers converged on Metropolitan United Church from opposite ends of the city Monday after a three-mile "Christmas walk" protesting nuclear arms.

Placards called for "No nuclear arms in Canada" and "Peace on earth or earth in pieces." The march was sponsored by the London Committee for the Control of Radiation Hazards and the University of Western Ontario branch of the Combined Universities Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament.

At the church the marchers were received by Rev. George Goth, who told them: "Anyone not prepared to stand up for peace doesn't know the true meaning of Christmas."

Mr. Goth, minister of the church, denounced public apathy toward peace walks and urged his audience to "stand up and be counted on this question of supporting peace."

Island Crash Rolls Up $800 Loss

CHEMUNUS—No one was injured but damage of $800 was done to two cars in collision on Chemunus highway Monday night, police said yesterday. Drivers involved were Henry Brown of Nanaimo and Alan Thornett of Chemunus. The accident occurred when Mr. Brown slipped on the icy roadway and was hit by Mr. Thornett's car.

Car Plunges Through Ice With Family

PHILLIPSBURG, Que. (CP)—A family of five, reunited just a week ago, was wiped out Tuesday when a car crashed through the ice on Lake Champlain.

UN Again Charges Rhodesia

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The United Nations issued another charge that the Congo's secessionist Katanga province was aided by Northern Rhodesia in its fight against UN forces.

A UN spokesman said Tuesday a witness on the scene reported that a Katanga air force bomber operated out of Ndola, Northern Rhodesia, in sorties against UN troops in fighting earlier this month.

“LUDICROUS”
Last Saturday Rhodesia denounced as “ludicrous” a UN charge that European mercenaries drove 48 armed jeeps across Northern Rhodesia to Katanga.

The British foreign office said it had asked for an explanation of such reports from Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Rhodesian federation and a strong supporter of Katanga president, Moise Tshombe.

Rescue Ship Plucks Angry Dredgemen From Stormy Ocean

BOSTON (AP)—Ten men snatched from the stormy North Atlantic Tuesday after they abandoned the drifting dredge Cartagena are bound for Boston in the rescue cutter Acushnet, determined not to return unless the weather improves.

The Acushnet plucked the men, including three Canadians, from gale-churned seas earlier in the day after they left the Cartagena on a raft. One was severely injured.

The U.S. Coast Guard identified the Canadians as John Philip Smith, 23, the second engineer, of Wallaceburg, Ont.; Vaughn Slack, 27, also of Wallaceburg; and John Sawyer, 22, of Chatham, Ont.

DONES NOT WISH
The Acushnet radioed a request by the dredge's captain that the owners, Standard Dredging Corp. of New York, be notified of the crew's decision.

Capt. Adley LeBlanc, 54, of Brewster Bridge, La., said his crew “does not wish to return.” The dredge went adrift

Dorothy Carr came from Alliance, Alta., just last week to join her husband David in Bedford, Que., where he was superintendent of a poultry processing plant.

REUNION

It was the first time he had seen their three children, Leslie, 5, Stephen, 4, and Jacqueline, 14 months, in several months. The parents were both about 30.

The Carrs, after a happy Christmas together, visited relatives here Tuesday and when Arthur Carr, David's brother, suggested a drive after lunch before returning to Bedford, everyone agreed.

HALF-MILE OUT

Arthur, about 40, had driven less than one-half mile off shore when the car suddenly went through the ice. He grabbed his daughter, Lee, 7, and escaped but his brother's family was trapped and drowned.

Andre Suprenaut, 20, who arrived on the scene shortly after the accident, said in an interview the Carrs headed “straight out on the ice to a point which is usually a good fishing area.”

“The ice is never very thick there because of the current,” he added.

THREW HER OUT

“From what Arthur Carr told me, the back wheels went down first. Arthur grabbed Lee and threw her out of the car, then jumped himself as it went down.”

“He then jumped in and dived for 20 minutes in an effort to get to the others.”

Golfing Quartet Strokes to Christmas Tree Honors

Winter Socks Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Winter swam (a biggest blow of the year at Florida Tuesday. Frigid air hammered the mercury below freezing south of Miami and coated cars with ice.

Weathermen predicted a quick warmup from the two-day Christmas cold snap.

CANADIAN FRONT

The freezing weather flowed into Florida from a Canadian cold front that produced blizzards in the U.S. Midwest and covered much of the northeast with snow.

Gainesville, in north central Florida, reported 23 degrees. Tallahassee recorded the official low for the state—20 degrees.

SMUDGE FIRES

Farmers and citrus growers, warned of the coming cold, broke out wind machines and used heavy smudge fires to protect their tender truck crops and young trees.

Officials of the federal-state frost warning service in Lakeland said a financial estimate of loss, if any, from the cold was not available immediately.

Dynasoar To Leap Into Orbit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. air force announced yesterday it will send the Dynasoar space glider directly into earth orbit, eliminating some preliminary tests.

Though an air force spokesman declined to say the change would speed up the program, there have been reports that manned military space flights may be advanced by as much as two years.

TITANS CANCELLED

To accomplish the new goal, the air force yesterday cancelled contracts with the Martin Co. for a number of Titan II rockets designed to boost the glider into sub-orbit.

At the same time, it said new contracts will be drawn up to permit the company to begin work on a more powerful rocket booster.

MOVE TO ORBITAL

The air force said the development program “will move directly from manned drops of the Dynasoar glider from a B-52 to orbital flight.”

In the orbital flight, a glider will be launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., and after one or more flights around the world will land at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Shuffle in Quebec All Aboard For Cabinet?

OTTAWA (CP)—Word spread quickly Tuesday that Prime Minister Diefenbaker and almost all his ministers will travel to Quebec City today, possibly for a major cabinet reorganization.

A cabinet shuffle at this time would make such a trip necessary. New ministers or those changing their portfolios would be sworn in before Gov. ernor-General Vanier, who is at his Quebec City residence for the Christmas holidays.

Lending weight to the rumor was the consistency in which it was being repeated in many Ottawa quarters—even down to the fact that two private railway cars were being prepared for the trip. However, there was no official confirmation.

BOARD TODAY

The possibility that the journey might be intended for dissolution of Parliament and a snap election was considered most unlikely. Parliament has already been called into session Jan. 18, and dissolution would not require all ministers to make the trip.

Reports here are that all cabinet ministers available in Ottawa would board the train this afternoon, and that the Quebec City ceremony would be held Thursday.

FIVE DROWN

On Boxing Day the toll worsened with the death of five members of one family when a car plunged through the ice of Lake Champlain, 40 miles southeast of Montreal.

The Canadian Highway Safety Council had predicted 36 persons would be killed in traffic. This was well below the 49 killed in traffic at Christmas last year. There were 68 accidental deaths last Christmas.

FIRE DEATHS

Ontario's holiday was marred by eight fire deaths, half the total across the country.

British Columbia had four fire deaths. Quebec two and Saskatchewan and New Brunswick one each.

Scientific Group Warns

Power to End All Life In Realm of Warfare

DENVER (AP)—Unlimited war has the power to end all human life and can no longer effectively protect national security, a U.S. scientific committee on human welfare said Tuesday.

The scientists urged a marshaling of all scientific resources to discover new inventions to replace war as a means of social protection.

The report was prepared by a committee of scientists and the promotion of human welfare of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The Association opened its 128th annual meeting Tuesday.

The committee's report saw a hazard in the use of electronic controls, such as computers, which might make a “wrong decision” and trigger an accidental or unwanted war.

Even a large-scale program of shelters could not influence the conclusion that a massive nuclear attack would destroy the social structure of the nation, the report said.

Senator 'Kicking Himself'

MONTREAL (CP)—Former Conservative Senator Henri Courtemanche said Tuesday he is “kicking himself” for having helped Dr. George Horri convert Jean-Talon Hospital from a private to a public institution.

Mr. Courtemanche submitted his resignation from the Senate Friday after a Quebec commission of inquiry into the affairs of the Montreal hospital criticized him for receiving more than $60,000 from the hospital and suggested the sum was probably a kickback on provincial government grants.

LEGAL SERVICES

He claimed the payments were for legal services. The former senator said in an interview he was told by Dr. Horri and his administrative assistant Romuald Belhumeur that Jean-Talon had to be converted to a public institution to receive provincial grants.

“That task was entrusted to me. But the way things turned out, I'm kicking myself for having accepted their proposition.”

WILL RUN AGAIN

Mr. Courtemanche, first elected to Parliament in 1957 and former secretary of state in the Diefenbaker cabinet, said he will run in the next federal election.

“I discussed it with Mr. Diefenbaker, who didn't urge me one way or the other,” Mr. Courtemanche said. “He simply told me I was very solid in my former constituency of La Belle.”

Inventor Dies at 78

BOSTON (AP)—Reinhold Rudenberg, 78, renowned electrical engineer who invented the electron microscope, died Tuesday after a brief illness.

A-Tactics Taught By RCAF

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF is training its Air Defence Command in nuclear as well as conventional tactics, qualified informants said Tuesday.

The RCAF made no official comment on the matter, probably because it involves a political question—a government decision whether to accept U.S. nuclear warheads.

BY THE FALL

The first RCAF Voodoo jet interceptor squadron—at near-by Uplands air base—became operational Christmas Eve. The four others will be at operational readiness with the U.S. Voodoo by the fall.

The Voodoes are being exercised by the air defence system in nuclear tactics—as if they carried the Genie nuclear rocket as well as the conventional Falcon air-to-air missile.

LOW BOMBER

Sources said nuclear tactics will also be applied to the CF-104 low-level jet bomber. The first squadron is scheduled to join the RCAF air division in Europe in November.

Nuclear tactics for the Voodoes are more an exercise for the ground-control system than for the aircraft.

FOR INSTANCE

The ground command system, for instance, would not have a nuclear-armed Voodoo as close to a target as a Voodoo armed only with a conventional weapon. Possible blinding of the pilot by the flash of a nuclear explosion is a problem not yet solved.

One side of the “table” on which weapons are slung on the RCAF Voodoo carries the Falcon.

GENIE FITTINGS

The other side is empty—but has the fittings for the Genie, now standard armament on U.S. interceptors.

Even as the RCAF puts into service the 66 Voodoes obtained from the U.S., defence officials are talking about a successor for the Voodoo in the late 1960s or early 1970s.

CRUDE WEAPON

The threat of the manned bomber is seen as lasting well into the 1970s at least. The intercontinental ballistic missile is regarded here as still a crude though powerful weapon. Any missile exchange between the U.S. and Russia would be, in the current description, “blind basketball.”

Protests Grow In India

NEW DELHI (AP)—Internal disapproval of India's military seizure of Portuguese Goa, Diu and Damao grew Tuesday.

An editor joined one of India's elder statesmen in criticizing the takeover as a violation of the moral principles of Mohandas K. Gandhi.

WHAT FAITH?

Eric da Costa, an editor writing in the Eastern Economist, said that after nearly a half century of reliance on Gandhi's principles of non-violence the current question is “what faith do we now profess?”

HOME PROTEST

The first significant sign of domestic protest came from Chakravarti Rajagopalachari—known in India as C.R.—the only Indian ever to serve as governor-general of the country.

The 82-year-old statesman, who broke with Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party two years ago to found the right-wing Freedom Party, declared that as a result of the Goan invasion “India has totally lost the moral power to raise her voice against the use of military power.”

Cleric Tied, Murdered

BROOKLYN, Mich. (AP)—The badly burned body of a retired Methodist minister, his hands tied behind his back, was found Tuesday in a burning room at his farm home near here. Police said the death of Rev. Roy Decker, 70, “definitely was murder.”

'People Command' New Guinea Grab Sukarno Warns

JAKARTA (Reuters)—President Sukarno, who issued a “command” for the “liberation” of Dutch-held West New Guinea a week ago, said Tuesday Indonesia intends to tear the territory away from the Netherlands.

In a speech at the opening of a congress of the pro-government National party, he pointed to a group of ambassadors and said: “Tell your governments the command of the people is for the seizure of West Irian from the Dutch.”

REGISTRATION POSTS

“I have ordered our national defence council to set up posts throughout Indonesia for the registration of volunteers. These volunteers will be trained to be soldiers and sent to West Irian (the Indonesian name for West New Guinea).”

“We have thought, we have talked, now we have to act,” Sukarno declared.

NOT SET IN

Meanwhile, the U.S. government has informed The Netherlands that it will not sit in as a third party in any possible Dutch-Indonesian talks on

Beauty In Red

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet Union has held its first “contest of beauty of the human form”—and the winner was an armsman and weightlifter, Vladimir Soloviyev, the Soviet news agency Tass said Tuesday night.

The contest, at Sverdlovsk in the Ural east of Moscow, will be an annual event.

Last Wild West Desperado Dies in Bed

TARZANA, Calif. — Al Jennings, last of the wild west bad men, died yesterday at his home here. He was 87.

Jennings, an actor, singer, and bank robber in the Southwest U.S. during the 1920s, lived out his remaining years on a small pension after having been pardoned from a federal penitentiary from a life term.

AL JENNINGS
... beautiful sunlight

The head of the notorious Jennings gang died of natural causes. Jennings gave up his rip-roaring desperado days in 1935 when he was sentenced to a life term for a variety of crimes. Thereafter he became a freelance lawyer, actor, politician, writer and evangelist.

He admitted to killing several men during his lifetime. "Most of them were rich Texans," he said a few years ago.

During an interview he said, "Best gunfighter I ever saw was Jim Nanton. He killed 20 men. When I was 11 years old, I seen him plug a man right between the eyes. The most beautiful sunlight I ever saw."

KINGSGATE, England — Frank Richards, whose Billy Bunter books delighted generations of English school children, died at 86.

VATICAN CITY — Pope John has formally convoked an ecumenical council of the Roman Catholic Church for 1962 and expressed hope it will serve as a step toward Christian unity.

LONDON — Sir Winston Churchill, 87, spent Christmas quietly at his Chartwell country home. Most of his grandchildren visited him for a family party.

OTTAWA — In his annual Christmas message Prime Minister Diefenbaker urged a greater stress on Christian principles in the lives of Canadians. "Despite the variety of Christmas customs in Canada, all are united in the message of peace on earth, good will to men."

SANDRINGHAM — The Prince of Wales, and his aunt, the young Duchess of Kent, became ill and walked out of a Christmas Day church service here.

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. — Henri Charpentier, 81, one of the last of the world's great chefs and the creator of the crepe suzette, died Sunday of a heart attack.

BONN — Prime Minister Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Lord Home will come here Jan. 9 for talks with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany.

Even the "thunk" says quality in the '62 FORD FAIRLANE

Quality features in the '62 Ford Fairlane
Every time you close a door of the '62 Fairlane, you hear it—the solid sound of quality. A newly designed door latch locks into place with a sure, snug grip. Such quality construction is typical of the entire car.
• Double-Grip Safety Door Latch—This completely new design is yours in the '62 Fairlane. As the door closes, double-grip arms centre over the striker pin in a real "bear-hug" grip, locking securely into position. A rubber bushing cushions the closing action and results in a door that closes securely, easily, with the solid "thunk" of quality every single time.
• Posture-Perfect Front Seats—they give you chair high comfort that you'll find especially enjoyable on long trips. The backs are a little higher for extra support and foam padding has been generously applied for additional comfort.
Service-Free features such as 30-809 miles between chassis lubrication, 30,000 mile or 2-year radiator coolant, self-adjusting brakes and corrosion-resistant underbody bring you a new measure of economy, convenience and quality.
FAIRLANE OFFERS YOU SO MUCH MORE THAN THE COMPACTS
You get big car room in a Fairlane, big as some of the roomiest cars in Ford history. You also enjoy big car ride with a full 115 1/2" wheelbase. Big car performance is yours with an all-new Challenger V-8 engine. And Fairlane gives you the convenience of twice-a-year maintenance with 6,000 miles between routine service stops.
OTHER NEW STANDARDS OF VALUE OFFERED BY THE '62 FAIRLANE
Price! It's exceptionally low. In fact, it's far less than previous Fairlanes; well under many compacts. And you keep right on saving with the world's first economy V-8 engine, or for even greater economy, the new Fairlane Six. Your Ford Dealer gives you a warranty for 12 months or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first.
Certain features highlighted are optional at extra cost.

Of British Columbia's 600 dentists only eleven are women. We wonder why this should be since there is certainly no lack of opportunity for the woman interested in a dental career. The truth is: British Columbia urgently needs dentists — men and women willing to give six years to intense study and training at one of Canada's six university dental schools. People concerned with caring for and protecting their community anxious to devote their life to a profession highly respected by the community and the nation as a whole.

If you wish the recognition, the personal satisfaction, and the well-earned income that are the result of practicing dentistry, we invite you to write for our informative booklet, Dentistry As A Career.

SECOND NEWS SECTION

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1961

Discussing reports of her death are Queenie, the horse which works in Beacon Hill Park, and park caretaker Sandy Hayton. Five people yesterday rushed over to Mr. Hayton to report Queenie dead or sick. Queenie, enjoying Christmas holidays, was just relaxing and paid no heed to handfuls of grass held out by visitors to park. (Robin Clark photo.)

Death Report Greatly Exaggerated

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Queenie, the city-owned horse which works in Beacon Hill Park, has days off but no off days, caretaker Sandy Hayton said last night.

"Five people today came over to my cottage to tell me she was sick or dead," he said. "Some even phoned the SPCA."

"Queenie is just independent. On her days off she stays in the deer pen and likes to roll in the mud and sometimes she just lies there. Even goes to sleep."

SUNT IGNORER
"When people talk to her or offer her grass she just ignores them. And then they come to see me."
Queenie, chomping on a carrot sent to her for Christmas, died.

Winners All Ready For Trip of Lifetime

By ALEX MERRIMAN

The New Year will bring the trip of a lifetime to 76-year-olds Carl and Anna Swanson of Lake Cowichan.

They will step aboard a Canadian Pacific Airlines liner in Vancouver Jan. 26 for a 10-day King Fisherman all-expenses-paid trip to Mexico.

SPECIAL GUESTS
While in Mexico, they will be special guests of De Lara tourist agency, the largest and most complete tour guide service in all of Mexico.

An English-speaking guide and a limousine will be placed at their disposal for the complete tour.

GRAND PRIZE
It is all part of the grand hidden-weight prize Mr. Swanson won in the 1961 edition of The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest.

The Colonist, Canadian Pacific Airlines and De Lara Agencies combine forces to give them what undoubtedly will be the most exciting 10 days of their already long lives.

ONLY LAST WEEK
What will make their trip even more exciting is that they will return from Mexico City to Vancouver on a new Canadian Pacific Airlines Jet Super DC-8, which was only placed into service last week. The return flight will take only 5½ hours.

REPEVY ONCE
The trip from Vancouver to Mexico will be made in a luxury Britannia turbo-prop jet aircraft in eight hours, which was considered a speedy trip until CPA put the new all-jet aircraft into service.

The Swansons have intermingled their busy Christmas preparations — they have a large family — with trip preparations.

EVERY NEED
They have had their vaccinations, and reservations are completed with De Lara Agencies. CPA Victoria representative Jack Hann is attending to their every need. Flight bags have been issued.

Their De Lara guide will be waiting for the Swansons when they touch down at Mexico City Airport in the luxury CPA Britannia.

TO THEIR HOTEL
He will guide them through customs and then to their Mexico City hotel.

Next day the tour will include the famous resort town of Xochimilco and a boat ride on the bullfight arena.

The 10-day tour will include time for shopping and sightseeing in Mexico City.

UNIVERSITY CITY
There will be a drive through rural Mexico to Acapulco with stops at the new ultra-modern University City, Cuernavaca and overnight at the silver centre city of Taxco.

They will spend two nights at the famous resort town of Acapulco, where they will be feted to a fiesta yacht cruise.

SANDY BEACHES
They will have time to relax and swim on the beautifully warm and sandy Acapulco beaches.

It is at Acapulco where Mr. Swanson plans to take in a charter deep-sea fishing trip to catch a giant sailfish.

Room for 850 Students
Tenders have been called for construction of a $200,000 classroom block to accommodate 850 students at Victoria University's Gordon Head campus.

Plans and specifications will be available tomorrow at the Government Street office of the architects, Wade, Stockill and Armour. Deadline for bids is 5 p.m. Jan. 17.

A sod-turning ceremony marking the beginning of construction will be held Jan. 20 near the planned site of a student union building on the east side of Finnerly Road, followed by a reception in the gymnasium.

Both the classroom and the student union building are expected to be completed by September when the fall term opens. Architects now are drawing working plans for the $300,000 student union building, which is expected to be completed by September, 1963.

Two Downtown Malls To Change City's Face

Double Project High On '62 Works List

Moves to change the face of Victoria with the construction of two downtown pedestrian malls will begin early next year.

The malls planned are on Broad Street, between Broughton and Fort, and on part of the 500 block of Fisgard Street, in the heart of Chinatown.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of city public works committee, said last night the question of the Broad Street mall will be one of the first things tackled by his committee in the new year.

HOW MUCH EACH
"It isn't a dead issue by any means," he said. "The merchants have asked us to find out what it would cost so they can discover how much each would have to pay."

Suggested earlier this year, turning the one-block section of Broad Street into a mall with painted pavement, benches and a fountain would cost about $10,000.

AWKWARD TURN
Blocking the section of Broad Street from traffic would also remove an awkward dogleg turn at Fort Street, city officials pointed out when the suggestion first arose.

The Chinatown mall was suggested last month in the Capital Region Planning Board's urban renewal report to city council.

WALL TO WALL
It would involve closing the 500 block Fisgard Street to vehicular traffic from Government Street and laying a wall-to-wall pavement across the present roadway.

As suggested by the CRPB report, the mall would extend 100 yards west from Government Street, including most of the retail stores in Chinatown.

CHINESE MOTIF
Access would be provided for trucks and cars from the Store Street end. The plan is part of a novel plan for the rehabilitation of the Chinatown area.

Trees, shrubs and decorations would carry through a Chinese motif with benches provided.

"It seems like quite a good idea," Ald. Edgelow said. "Naturally, we will check with Chinatown to make sure everyone is happy with it. "It could be we will have two malls next year."

End Six-Year Fight

Continuing B.C. Grant Birthday Gift to City?

Provincial government's main birthday gift to Victoria next year may be a continuing grant of about $300,000 a year, which could increase year by year.

The grant would equal the amount the city loses each year in servicing government-owned property in James Bay, which is not subject to city taxes—some $300,000 this year.

The "birthday gift"—if it comes—will end a bitter fight waged over the past six years by Mayor Percy Scourrah.

Government spokesmen have hinted recently that the government might be about to change its policy of not giving the city grants in lieu of taxes.

This would bring the provincial situation into line with the federal government which

TB Clinic Tenders Called in January

Tenders for construction of a $75,000 tuberculosis clinic on the grounds of Royal Jubilee Hospital will be called sometime in January, an official said last night.

The new centre will have clinic accommodation, X-ray facilities and office space, serving residents from all parts of Vancouver Island. Cost of the structure will be met with $45,000 from the B.C. Tuberculosis Society and $15,000 from each of the two senior governments.

'Siesta' Gets Prize

"Siesta on Pa" is the title of this photograph which won first prize for 15-year-old Shirley Terry, 770 Claremont Avenue, in Victoria Junior SPCA photographic contest.

Girl Dual Winner For Essay, Art

Fifteen-year-old Shirley Pike, 2635 Belmont, won first prize in both the essay contest and the art contest conducted by Victoria Junior SPCA.

Lee Larson, 16, placed second in both contests. Margaret White gained third prize for essays and Sandra Turner third for arts.

Winners in the photographic contest were Shirley Terry, Martha Morgan and Lee Larson.

Contests were organized by Mrs. J. W. Redpath.

Older Boys Here For House Session

Experience in debating and governmental procedure will be gained in Victoria this week by nearly 100 young men from all over British Columbia.

The opportunity will be provided in the 31st session of the Older Boys' Parliament of B.C., held in the legislative buildings under the sponsorship of the Inter-Church Parliamentary Committee.

Honorary titles ranging from lieutenant-governor to MLA Ken Jensen will lead the debate. John Curtis will be Speaker and Rick Higgs will be the Opposition Leader.

Three UBC students from Vancouver will play leading roles in the session. "Premier" roles in the session. "Premier" roles in the session.

Industrial Body Gets Information

Victoria's newly-formed industrial commission will hold its first regular meeting early next month.

"At present we are attempting to get the background of industrial commissions across Canada—their terms of reference, the laws which govern their activities, how their membership is composed, and how they work," acting chairman Ald. Michael Griffin said last night.

"We've had some pretty comprehensive reports back. What has surprised me is the tremendous co-operation we have had—you'd think they would keep this information to themselves because we are competition."

The commission's job is to encourage industries to establish here.

Home Rifled $8.25 Taken

Thieves ransacked a city home Christmas Day and made off with $8.25.

The culprits broke a latch on a rear door at the home of G. E. Lane, 743 Dunedin, and went through a desk in the living room and drawers in a bedroom while the Lanes were away between 4:30 and 11 p.m.

Spot of Badwill Shatters Christmas TV Silence

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

LET NOTHING YOU DISMAY: On Christmas Day one of the Seattle television stations was busy flashing merry messages of goodwill on the screen when one of the slides stuck.

There was a terrible grinding noise then silence—broken only by the flustered voice of an exasperated announcer who said: "This is a... tape!"

THE THINGS THEY SAY: Friend of ours defines a pedestrian as "A husband who didn't believe his wife when she told him the family needed two cars."

NOTES TO YOU: Ever since they started making those Christmas crackers in Japan the jokes printed on tiny sheets of paper inside have been getting worse.

We did considerable research on this subject Christmas Day, retrieving the scattered jokes from sundry floors where they lay.

The only thing we concluded was that the jokes were better in the cheaper 18¢ cents per dozen crackers than the more expensive $2.50 for eight variety.

Here are a few... "He who hesitates is last." "Wow! Nobody would fall off his chair at that one."

How about this comment about a starlet who just he called "chaged?"

"They're made for each other. He owns oil wells, and she's always gushing."

Well, at 31 cents that's a pretty expensive joke. If you were really lucky you could have ended up with this one.

"Man teaching wife to drive: 'Go on green, stop on red, take it easy when I turn white.' Or 'A dollar to a doughnut in far from the odds it used to be."

Ho, hum! Who's got the energy to laugh on Christmas Day anyway?

POWER POLETHIN: The B.C. Electric had to rush its underground wiring work in the downtown area in order to honor retiring Victoria Mayor Percy B. McEvoy.

The work wasn't due to be completed just yet, but the B.C. Electric thought it would be a fine thing if Mayor Scourrah was able to top down a power pole as part of the removal program while he was still in office.

The ceremony takes place outside the Central Building, 621 View at 2 p.m. Thursday. Mayor Scourrah will act like a logger, wielding a whining power saw to bring the chain pole crashing to the ground.

ROOM AT THE TOP: Yet another of the brighter boys from CHEK-TV is leaving to seek fame and fortune elsewhere.

Charles Davis, who, judging by his frequent on-camera appearances, has been a real mainstay of the local operation, will join the CBC in Vancouver starting Jan. 1.

"I'll be on both CBU and CBU radio," says Chuck. "That is what I call a great Christmas present."

SEEN IN PASSING: An advertisement for an auction at an interior brewery says everything must be sold "lock, stock and barrel."

Well, maybe it was just a small brewery.

RAIN OF THE TIMES: A headline we spotted yesterday read: "Pole Blasted in Dock Area."

Ah! Rare violence again!

Car Plunges Through Ice With Family

PHILLIPSBURG, Que. (CP)—A family of five, reunited just a week ago, was wiped out Tuesday when a car crashed through the ice on Lake Champlain.

UN Again Charges Rhodesia

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The United Nations issued another charge that the Congo's secessionist Katanga province was aided by Northern Rhodesia in its fight against UN forces.

A UN spokesman said Tuesday a witness on the scene reported that a Katanga air force bomber operated out of Ndola, Northern Rhodesia, in sorties against UN troops in fighting earlier this month.

LUDICROUS
Last Saturday Rhodesia denounced as "ludicrous" a UN charge that European mercenaries drove 48 armed jeeps across Northern Rhodesia to Katanga.

The British foreign office said it had asked for an explanation of such reports from Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Rhodesian federation and a strong supporter of Katanga president Moise Tshombe.

Dorothy Carr came from Alliance, Alta., just last week to join her husband David in Bedford, Que., where he was superintendent of a poultry processing plant.

REUNION
It was the first time he had seen their three children, Leslie, 5, Stephen, 4, and Jacqueline, 14 months, in several months. The parents were both about 30.

The Carrs, after a happy Christmas together, visited relatives here Tuesday and when Arthur Carr, David's brother, suggested a drive after lunch before returning to Bedford, everyone agreed.

HALF-MILE OUT
Arthur, about 40, had driven less than one-half mile off shore when the car suddenly went through the ice. He grabbed his daughter, Lee, 7, and escaped but his brother's family was trapped and drowned.

Andre Suprenant, 20, who arrived on the scene shortly after the accident, said in an interview the Carrs headed "straight out on the ice to a point which is usually a good fishing area."

"The ice is never very thick there because of the current," he added.

THREW HER OUT
"From what Arthur Carr told me, the back wheels went down first, Arthur grabbed Lee and threw her out of the car, then jumped himself as it went down."

"He then jumped in and dived for 20 minutes in an effort to get to the others."

Rescue Ship Plucks Angry Dredgemen From Stormy Ocean

BOSTON (AP)—Ten men snatched from the stormy North Atlantic Tuesday after they abandoned the drifting dredge Cartagena are bound for Boston in the rescue cutter Acushnet, determined not to return unless the weather improves.

The Acushnet plucked the men, including three Canadians, from gale-churned seas earlier in the day after they left the Cartagena on a raft. One was severely injured.

The U.S. Coast Guard identified the Canadians as John Philip Smith, 23, the second engineer, of Wallaceburg, Ont.; Vaughn Slack, 27, also of Wallaceburg, and John Sawyer, 22, of Chatham, Ont.

DOES NOT WISH
The Acushnet radioed a request by the dredge's captain that the owners, Standard Dredging Corp. of New York, be notified of the crew's decision.

Capt. Adley LeBlanc, 54, of Bureau Bridge, La., said his crew "does not wish to return."

The dredge went adrift

Christmas Day when a hawser parted as she was being towed from Quebec to Baltimore by the Canadian tug Foundation Vigilant.

The Acushnet said the tug remained standing by, her master advising he intends "to get a line on her when weather moderates."

STAY 10 WEEKS
"If it doesn't sink I'll stay here 10 weeks if I have to," he added.

Injured crew member Merlin Robinson, 46, of Harrisburg, Miss., was unconscious and "apparently dead" when rescued, the Acushnet reported. He was revived through mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by a medical corpsman and Tuesday night rested comfortably.

RCAF TEACHES A-TACTICS

Voodoo Tests Political Issue

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF is training its Air Defence Command in nuclear as well as conventional tactics, qualified informants said Tuesday.

The RCAF made no official comment on the matter, probably because it involves a political question—a government decision whether to accept U.S. nuclear warheads.

BY THE FALL

The first RCAF Voodoo jet interceptor squadron—at near by Upminster air base—became operational Christmas Eve. The four others will be at operational readiness with the U.S. Voodoo by the fall.

The Voodoos are being exercised by the air defence system in nuclear tactics—as if they carried the Genie nuclear rocket as well as the conventional Falcon air-to-air missile.

LOW BOMBER

Sources said nuclear tactics will also be applied to the CF-104 low-level jet bomber. The first squadron is scheduled to join the RCAF air division in Europe in November.

Nuclear tactics for the Voodoo are more an exercise for the ground-control system than for the aircrew.

FOR INSTANCE

The ground command system, for instance, would not take a nuclear-armed Voodoo as close to a target as a Voodoo armed only with a conventional weapon. Possible blinding of the pilot by the flash of a nuclear explosion is a problem not yet solved.

One side of the "table" on which weapons are slung on the RCAF Voodoo carries the Falcon.

The other side is empty—but has the fittings for the Genie, now standard armament on U.S. interceptors.

Even as the RCAF puts into service the 66 Voodoos obtained from the U.S., defence officials are talking about a successor for the Voodoo in the late 1960s or early 1970s.

CRUDE WEAPON

The threat of the manned bomber is seen as lasting well into the 1970s at least. The intercontinental ballistic missile is regarded here as still a crude though powerful weapon. Any missile exchange between the U.S. and Russia would be, in the current description, "blind basketball."

Protests Grow In India

NEW DELHI (AP)—Internal disapproval of India's military seizure of Portuguese Goa, Diu and Damao grew Tuesday.

An editor joined one of India's elder statesmen in criticizing the takeover as a violation of the moral principles of Mohandas K. Gandhi.

WHAT FAITH?

Eric de Costa, an editor writing in the Eastern Economist, said that after nearly a half century of reliance on Gandhi's principles of non-violence the current question is "what faith do we now profess?"

The first significant sign of domestic protest came from Chakravarti Rajagopalachari—known in India as C.R.—the only Indian ever to serve as governor-general of the country.

LOST POWER

The 82-year-old statesman, who broke with Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party two years ago to found the right-wing Freedom Party, declared that as a result of the Goa invasion "India has totally lost the moral power to raise her voice against the use of military power. She can no longer speak as she used to."

Winter Socks Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Winter swung its biggest blow of the year at Florida Tuesday. Frigid air hammered the mercury below freezing south of Miami and coated cars with ice.

Weathermen predicted a quick warmup from the two-day Christmas cold snap.

CANADIAN FRONT

The freezing weather flowed into Florida from a Canadian cold front that produced blizzards in the U.S. Midwest and covered much of the northeast with snow.

Gainesville, in north central Florida, reported 23 degrees. Tallahassee recorded the official low for the state—20 degrees.

SNOWDROPS

Farmers and citrus growers, warned of the coming cold, broke out wind machines and used heavy smudge fires to protect their tender truck crops and young trees.

Shuffle in Quebec All Aboard For Cabinet?

OTTAWA (CP)—Word spread quickly Tuesday that Prime Minister Diefenbaker and almost all his ministers will travel to Quebec City today, possibly for a major cabinet reorganization.

A cabinet shuffle at this time would make such a trip necessary. New ministers or those changing their portfolios would be sworn in before Governor-General Vanier, who is at his Quebec City residence for the Christmas holidays.

Lending weight to the rumor was the consistency in which it was being repeated in many Ottawa quarters—even down to the fact that two private railway cars were being prepared for the trip. However, there was no official confirmation.

BOARD TODAY

The possibility that the journey might be intended for dissolution of Parliament and a snap election was considered most unlikely. Parliament has already been called into session Jan. 18, and dissolution would not require all ministers to make the trip.

Reports here are that all cabinet ministers available in Ottawa would board the train this afternoon, and that the Quebec City ceremony would be held Thursday.

FIVE DROWN

On Boxing Day the toll worsened with the death of five members of one family when a car plunged through the ice of Lake Champlain, 40 miles southeast of Montreal.

The Canadian Highway Safety Council had predicted 36 persons would be killed in traffic. This was well below the 49 killed in traffic at Christmas last year. There were 68 accidental deaths last Christmas.

Senator 'Kicking Himself'

MONTREAL (CP)—Former Conservative Senator Henri Courtemanche said Tuesday he is "kicking himself" for having helped Dr. George Horne convert Jean-Talton Hospital from a private to a public institution.

Mr. Courtemanche submitted his resignation from the Senate Friday after a Quebec commission of inquiry into the affairs of the Montreal hospital criticized him for receiving more than $60,000 from the hospital and suggested the sum was probably a kickback on provincial government grants.

LEGAL SERVICES

He claimed the payments were for legal services. The former senator said in an interview he was told by Dr. Horne and his administrative assistant Romuald Belhumeur that Jean-Talton had to be converted to a public institution to receive provincial grants.

"That task was entrusted to me. But the way things turned out, I'm kicking myself for having accepted their proposition."

WILL RUN AGAIN

Mr. Courtemanche, first elected to Parliament in 1957 and former secretary of state in the Diefenbaker cabinet, said he will run in the next federal election.

"I discussed it with Mr. Diefenbaker, who didn't urge me one way or the other," Mr. Courtemanche said. "He simply told me I was very solid in my former constituency of La Belle."

Dynasoar To Leap Into Orbit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. air force announced yesterday it will send the Dynasoar space glider directly into earth orbit, eliminating some preliminary tests.

Though an air force spokesman declined to say the change would speed up the program, there have been reports that manned military space flights may be advanced by as much as two years.

TITANS CANCELLED

To accomplish the new goal, the air force yesterday cancelled contracts with the Martin Co. for a number of Titan II rockets designed to boost the glider into sub-orbit.

At the same time, it said new contracts will be drawn up to permit the company to begin work on a more powerful rocket booster.

MOVE TO ORBITAL

The air force said the development program "will move directly from manned drops of the Dynasoar glider from a B-52 to orbital flight."

Scientific Group Warns

Power to End All Life In Realm of Warfare

DENVER (AP)—Unlimited war has the power to end all human life and can no longer effectively protect national security, a U.S. scientific committee on human welfare said Tuesday.

The scientists urged a marshaling of all scientific resources to discover new inventions to replace war as a means of social protection.

"Science has now achieved such mastery of nature as to place in human hands the power to end human life," the committee's report said. "From now on, mankind must live in a world in which a suicidal war—by whatever means—is always possible."

The report was prepared by seven of nine members of a committee on science and the promotion of human welfare of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The association opened its 128th annual meeting Tuesday.

The committee's report saw a hazard in the use of electronic controls, such as computers, which might make a "wrong decision" and trigger an accidental or unwanted war.

Even a large-scale program of shelters could not influence the conclusion that a massive nuclear attack would destroy the social structure of the nation, the report said.

'People Command' New Guinea Grab Sukarno Warns

JAKARTA (Reuters)—President Sukarno, who issued a "command" for the "liberation" of Dutch-held West New Guinea a week ago, said Tuesday Indonesia intends to tear the territory away from the Netherlands.

In a speech at the opening of a congress of the pro-government National party, he pointed to a group of ambassadors and said: "Tell your governments the command of the people is for the seizure of West Irian from the Dutch."

REGISTRATION POSTED

"I have ordered our national defence council to set up posts throughout Indonesia for the registration of volunteers. These volunteers will be trained to be soldiers and sent to West Irian (the Indonesian name for West New Guinea)."

"We have thought we have talked, now we have to act," Sukarno declared.

WONT SIT IN

Meanwhile, the U.S. government has informed The Netherlands that it will not sit in as a third party in any possible Dutch-Indonesian talks on West New Guinea, as requested by the Dutch. Informed sources said, however, that the United States has indicated it will be willing to do all possible to bring both parties together through unofficial mediation.
